Susie Gardner Chosen "Girl of the Year"

In the Mother-Daughter annual banquet last night at the Holiday Inn, Mrs. Danny (Susie) Gardner, was honored as "Girl of the Year" of the Junior Woman's Club. Fifty persons were in attendance. The presentation was made by Mrs. M. E. Montgomery of the Sikeston Woman's Club.

Officers installed last night were as follows: Mrs. Linda Carmody, president; Mrs. Judy Throgmorton, vice-president; Mrs. Ann Elliott, secretary; Mrs. Ruth Ann Taylor, corresponding secretary, and Miss Linda Freeman, treasurer.

Miss Kathryn Clark was presented with an engraved silver tray, for her many contributions as pianist in the recent Follies. Two members were presented with a gift certificate for their efforts in the 1965 Red Stocking Follies and were, Mrs. Addie Mae Jones, for the most tickets sold, and to Mrs. Shirley Dyer, for the most advertising sold.

Light Docket In Magistrate

A light docket was brought before Judge M. E. Montgomery in this morning's session of Magistrate Court.

Samuel Massa, St. Louis, Mo., pleaded not guilty to the charge of non-support and case was dismissed. He proved to the court that he had been unable to pay the required sum to his family due to poor health.

Clifton Crowden, Bell City, Mo., charged with having no operators license, had case continued until next week.

J. D. Moore, 124 Cardinal St., Sikeston, charged with writing bad checks, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5. and costs.

Leonard Todd, Union City, Tenn., charged with improper registration, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25. and costs.

Marion Williams, Felker St., Sikeston, charged with non-support, had case continued until next week.

William Hutchinson, 912 Stoddard St., Dexter, Mo., pleaded not guilty to the charge of non-support and had case continued until next week's session of Magistrate Court.

James King, 216 Smith St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and minor having possession of liquor. On the driving charge he was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail and was fined $25. and costs and license was revoked for six months. On the possession charge he was fined $50 and costs.

Rotarians

President-elect Lucien Stoner was host to the Rotary members at a steak fry at his cabin on Lake Wappapello, Monday night. Chief cooks for the outing were, Ray Leible, Fred Koch, Gene Dement, and assisted by the salad chef Chip Schmerbauch and President Allan Hubbard, as onion cutter. Guests were, W. D. Carney, Dave Markel, Fred Bender, Max Teague and Sharon Pharris. It was Aubrey Shain's last meeting as he will be transferred to Springfield.

The next meeting will be on May 17 at the Holiday Inn, with Thatcher Scism as the program chairman. One member was fortunate in landing a two-pound bass on the outing.

Three City Arrests

It is again shown that getting intoxicated isn't going to pay, for the Sikeston Police Department made three arrests in the last 24 hours, all for being under the influence of intoxicating liqour in public.

James Lackey, 638 Lynn St., Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Reed Daugherty, 212 Trotter, Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Paul Glancy, Rt. 2, Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Recipe For A Husband

LONDON AP -- For Marilyn Potts, the recipe for getting a husband is roast lamb, potatoes and peas.

Marilyn, who is 18, met Paul Reed, 25. Two months ago they decided to wed.

Marilyn's mother objected. She said her daughter was too young, and furthermore she could cook only eggs and bacon.

Paul's mother suggested that Marilyn cook her a Sunday dinner.

Marilyn agreed and appealed to the court for permission to mary Paul if she passed the cooking test.

In England, a person under 21 can marry without parental permission only if a court approves.

Marilyn served roast lamb, peas and potatoes Sunday.

"The meal was delicious," said Paul's mother. "She certainly proved to me that she could cook and look after my son."

Monday the court gave Marilyn permission to wed Paul.

Automobile driving over the past 24 hours showed a great improvement over the 14-county area in Troop E, in that there were but three accidents, with two injuries.

At 6:50 p.m. Monday five miles southwest of Dexter, a 1957 Ford driven by Gary Beacham, 19, Dexter, and a 1965 Ford, driven by Leonard Cooper, 56 met near a hillcrest, with each of the cars receiving damage to their left fronts. Neither driver was injured.

In an accident on Highway 61, three miles south of Jackson, Monday at 7:30 p.m. Gerald Stevens, 25, Burfordville, attempted to pass a 1963 Ford driven by Mary Ann Kuehn, 27, route three, Jackson. The Kuehn car attempted to make a left turn as the Stevens car attempted to pass, when he hit a culvert and overturned. Both drivers were taken to the McDonald Clinic in Jackson with bruises and lacerations.

Civil Defense Pays Sikeston

Sikeston, it was announced by Mr. John Vaughn, City Clerk for the City of Sikeston, has received the final payment of $1,266 from the Civil Defense due to Sikeston being declared a Natural Disaster area in March, 1964.

Three In City Court

In a short session of City Court held by Judge E. R. Schrader this morning, three cases were brought before him, all of which were on the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

James Lackey, 638 Lynn St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public and was fined $6 and costs.

Reed Daugherty, 121 Trotter St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor and was fined $6 and costs.

Paul Glancy, Rt. 2, Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public and was fined $6 and costs.

Sikes To Admin. Position In Manpower Development And Training Act Program

W. F. (Bill) Sikes

Wm. F. "Bill" Sikes of Sikeston, prominent farmer and businessman, has been employed by the Board of Education to an administrative position in a Manpower Development and Training Act Program, Board President L. M. Standley said today.

Sikes is a graduate of the University of Missouri. He is a former President of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a past director of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in other agricultural and economic organizations. He was approved by the Missouri State Department of Education for this position partially because of his extensive experience in dealing with farmers and agricultural workers in the area. Many of the trainees will come from the group of former agricultural workers, displaced by mechanization in farming.

The particular project in which Mr. Sikes will be working will involve training in various vocations for about 400, extremely low income, youth and adults coming from 20 Southeast Missouri counties. Approximately 200 of the trainees will be adult heads of families and about 100 will be under educated youth or possibly school drop outs. Most, if not all of the trainees, are presently unemployed or under employed and this training will include

Bus Bill Killed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)— A bill to let public and parochial school students ride public school buses was killed for the second time Monday.

The controversial issue has generated more heat than any other bill this session. Earlier a similar measure died in the Senate Education Committee.

And Monday the House Education Committee voted it down on a reported 30-10 vote.

During its stormy course the issue drew thousands of partisans to the Capitol for hearings. Proponents pushed it as a safety measure. Opponents said it violated the traditional separation of church and state.

Two other major proposals moved forward.

The Senate advanced a broad public accommodations bill to bar racial or religious discrimination in public places.

The House put into position for passage a constitutional change to permit bond issues to be passed by a 60 per cent majority instead of the two-thirds now required.

Both houses got into long arguments over the bills.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis tried to make the public accommodations bill cover all barber and beauty shops, instead of those in hotels or stores only. He got the job done once, then the Senate backed up and defeated his amendment.

Opponents of McNeal's plan said they feared it would jeopardize the bill's chances in the House.

The House batted down 10 amendments to the bond proposal before approving it after more than three hours of argument.

Opposition to the 60 per cent figure was led by Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-St. Louis County. He first proposed a requirement that bond issues be voted by 60 per cent of the qualified voters. Few elections draw that many to the polls.

The House also defeated efforts to set the required majority at 57, 61, 63 and 65 per cent and to limit voting to property owners.

As the week's work started, Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, Senate majority leader, announced the Senate would hold its first all day session Wednesday in an attempt to cut down the number of pending bills.

The House has been meeting both morning and afternoon for several weeks.

Judges Refuse To Set Reapportionment Deadline

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A panel of three federal judges has refused to put a July 15 deadline on reapportionment of the Missouri House and Senate.

The panel ruled in December that present apportionment was unconstitutional, but the judges withheld action to give the Legislature time to act.

A motion was filed April 6 asking the court for a supplementary order setting a July 15 deadline for action. It was argued that the action was needed to give adequate time for candidates in the 1966 elections.

The current legislative session ends June 30.

In denying the motion Monday, the panel said:

"The court will consider the situation as it exists after June 30 to determine whether steps have been taken to establish a constitutionally acceptable apportionment scheme."

The panel also denied a part of the motion which asked the court to determine whether it was the duty of election commissioners in Jackson and St. Louis counties to apportion districts within their counties.

The suit to force reapportionment was filed by four Kansas City residents, and is being considered along with a similar suit filed by three St. Louis citizens.

Members of the panel are Floyd R. Gibson and William H. Becker of the U.S. District Court, and Albert A. Ridge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hope To Have New Districts Set In 2 Weeks

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House Reapportionment Committee Monday night prepared for the monumental task of dividing Missouri into 168 new representative districts.

Members were grouped in four subcommittees, each responsible for redistricting part of the state on the "one man-one vote" basis laid down by the federal courts.

Rep. Norbert Jasper, D-Franklin County, committee chairman said the subgroups will not aim at a set variance between the populations of each district, but will try instead to make the districts "as equal as possible." The courts, he said, have frowned on the use of a maximum variance.

Urban representation would almost double under the plan the subcommittees are following. The group assigned to realign St. Louis City and County, for example, is working with 56 districts compared with the present 29.

Members agreed they must come up with a plan within two weeks, Jasper said. Last week, the House advanced a proposed constitutional amendment increasing its size by five, to 168.

The committee was warned Monday by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, Senate majority leader, that voters might reject the constitutional amendment if they are unhappy with the new districts. He also said reapportionment was taking precious time away from other important legislation.

Waters urged the committee to accept a Senate plan, backed by the governor, to let a bipartisan commission handle the task instead.

Jasper said, however, he thought the committee's plan could stand as a separate law even if the amendment is rejected.

Here are the subcommittees and their areas:

The First, Second and Third Congressional districts — St. Louis City and County—will be realigned by Reps. James P. Troupe, Harry C. Raiffie, Buddy Kay, Frank Kostron and Patrick J. Hickey, Democrats, and Alfred A. Speer, Republican.

The Fourth and Fifth districts —Kansas City, Jackson County and seven other counties—to be remapped by Reps. Frank C. Mazzuca, Leon M. Jordan and Homer M. Clements, Democrats and George Duensing Jr., Republican. The area will comprise 31 House districts.

The Sixth and Ninth Congressional districts — including most counties north of the Missouri River— will be divided by Democratic Reps. Jasper, Richard J. DeCoster, Luna Butler and James W. Williams into 31 House districts.

The Seventh, Eighth and Tenth Congressional districts — Most of the state south of the Missouri — will be redrawn by Reps. Bill Crigler, Raymond Roberts and James C. Skaggs, Democrats and Luther Arnold, Martin Degenhardt and Guss C. Salley, Republicans. It will number 50 House districts.

Committee members originally were picked by the House speaker on the basis of two from each congressional district. They are receiving technical aid from four political scientists from the University of Missouri — David Leuthold, Carlyle Dewey, Steve Brown and Jerry Nunn.

Viet Cong Executes Mighty Attack, Kill 5

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- The Viet Cong occupied a town of 15,000 persons 74 miles north of Saigon for seven hours today, killing 5 American military advisers and wounding 11 others in one of the heaviest onslaughts of the Vietnamese war.

In another operation, a U. S. Marine was killed and six were wounded when a company of leathernecks shot their way into a complex of Communist-controlled villages near the Da Nang ir Base.

The casualties raised the total of U. S. combat dead in Viet Nam to 372 since December 1961.

The heaviest American casualties were suffered in Song Be, a provincial capital near the Cambodian border. Government forces reoccupied the town under cover of a heavy air attack by U. S. Air Force jets, but the Communists dug in along a river northeast of the town. A major battle appeared to be developing.

Communists groundfire hit one American propeller-driven fighter - bomber in the engine, forcing it to land. An Army helicopter picked up the pilot unhurt 15 minutes later.

"We're really pouring the air on them. We're giving them everything we can lay our hands on," a U. S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

The Vietnamese defenders were believed to have suffered heavy casualties in the attack, which was the first Red seizure of a provincial capital since last fall.

Song Be first came under heavy mortar attack at 1:55 a.m. The Communists followed up at 2:30 a.m. with an infantry assault in regimental strength on the town where about 30 U. S. advisers were stationed with a force of some 1,000 Vietnamese.

During the fighting helicopters were unable to land reinforcements because Red fire in the landing zones was too hot.

By daylight the guerrillas were well inside the town and engaged the defenders in house-to-house fighting.

One group of guerrillas fought their way into the mess hall of the U. S. Army advisory detachment, but all were killed in hand-to-hand fighting. A second group got into the hall and got away with a supply of rations.

The Communists seized the provincial administration building in Song Be and attacked a government post a half mile from town. The post held despite withering fire from Viet Cong cannon and mortars.

The Viet Cong captured five armored cars from defenders of the administration building and threw them into an attack on the Song Be airstrip a half mile away.

The Viet Cong began to leave the town about 9 a.m. and government troops began moving in. Red antiaircraft fire continued at noon troop-carrying helicopters were still unable to land in the area.

Several medical evacuation helicopters got through to pick up casualties. None was reported downed.

Viet Cong antiaircraft filled the sky with tracers.

"They had two batteries working us over pretty good," said Capt. Kenneth Blackwell of Newaygo, Mich., a B57 pilot.

Blackwell's swift, two-engine plane was hit in the tail and right wing.

The leader of the strike, Capt. Robert Woodruff of Pomona, Calif., also took hits on his jet.

Woodruff's navigator, Capt. Don Carruthers of Palo Alto, Calif., was grazed by flying glass when a bullet struck the jet's cockpit canopy. Physicians removed glass splinters from his arm.

The Americans have been expecting a major attack for months on Song Be. The town was created by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, who opened up Phuoc Long Province, a desolate area near Cambodia.

The attack followed three days of intensive Communist activity in the northern Mekong Delta. Two Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a battle Sunday and Monday in Hau Nghia Province, 50 miles south of Song Be.

The Marine casualties occurred in the leathernecks' first seize-and-hold operation since they landed in Viet Nam two months ago. They occupied the Le My village complex, a trouble spot for the Marines and government forces where another Marine was killed last Friday.

Usually only a Viet Cong platoon or less operates in the area, but the Communists can summon reinforcements quickly from the nearby hills.

A Marine company charged one of the central hamlets today and ran into sharp sniper fire. One Marine fell, shot through the heart. Marine fire teams then sprayed the Communist position with bullets. One woman was found killed and an old man fatally wounded.

Four of six Americans wounded were reported in serious condition.

Because of its position 8 miles west of the strategic Da Nang base, wresting Le My from the Viet Cong was considered a must.

Honor Banquet Held Last Night

"A man's education is his cornerstone." That was what Dr. Bob G. Woods, Associate Professor of Education at the University of Missouri, said to close his address to the students and their parents at the Seventh Annual Honor Banquet.

There were 83 sophomores, juniors and seniors with their parents at the banquet. The students in attendance were the top 10 per cent of their respective classes.

The seniors and their parents received special recognition at the banquet and all of the students received a special certificate.

Mr. David Blanton, Toastmaster, introduced Dr. Woods who commented on how Sikeston and the community had changed since he was here in the early part of 1944.

He then went on to introduce his topic by saying that, "living today does not come easy and the uneducated is oftentimes destined to become a prisoner of poverty for the rest of his life."

He then gave a warning to the students. "I hope that you students realize that there is today an explosion of knowledge taking place. There is a patent being made every ten seconds and there is more knowledge turned up in one day, in these times, than was known in the post-war years. This is going to affect your young peoples lives tremendously. You will have jobs that are presently unknown to mankind. This makes it tough for the educators for they are faced with the problem of knowing what to teach that will prepare you for the future living that will have to be made."

"Students, you will have to continue your education to the highest possible point of your capacity in order to stay free individuals. You are not presently equipped to go out on your own. You merely have the tools to prepare. Utilization is entirely up to you and you alone."

"For the future you will have to achieve a higher level of learning. Upgrade your vocational competence to the highest level possible." As an example of this he explained that today's farmer must be a business man, among other various things. In other words he meant that a farmer must have a wide knowledge and be well informed.

He then proceeded to tell the students that people who prepared for their vocation years ago, "have to keep pace with the rapid changes being made in knowledge."

"There are many specialties and the demand for technicians is going to increase even more sharply in the near future. Automation is eliminating jobs for people faster than the people can prepare for them." As an example he pointed out that many of the production lines of today do not have people. He stated that they are being replaced by multi-purpose machines.

He again warned the students that it is, "possible for a person to earn a degree today and still be unemployed. Do not take the easy road. It may be easier for you today, but tomorrow it will be the most difficult. When you make the selection of your appropriate vocation, do not be lax. This laxness is very malignant and if you defelop this in school, it will burden you always."

He then said, "A person today has to be very persistent in his vocation. It requires self-study, reading and more study. People, oftentimes, that are unemployed today will not return for more education. For the welfare of yourself and your nation you had better develop a sincere curiosity and keep an open mind toward more education. To have a full life, a sound general education is essential in today's fast pace."

In summarizing his speech to the students he pointed out five things that he wanted left impressed on their minds.

1. Obtain the highest level possible in your education.
2. Possession of degree does not insure success.
3. Develop an intellectual curiosity.
4. Realize the importance of

RIGHT TO WORK AND CIVIL RIGHTS

The American people are convinced that the Right to Work is right. They know that the Right to Work is a worker's right, a state right and an individual right. And, as a matter of fact, many feel that no civil right is more important than the civil right of free choice -- presently guaranteed in 19 states by Right to Work laws.

The demand by some political leaders to repeal Section 14(b) -- the section of The Taft-Hartley Act which allows states to enact Right To Work laws -- is strangely inconsistent with their avowed concern for the civil and human rights of all Americans.

Early in his State of the Union message, President Johnson declared that the nation is "dedicated to freedom from arbitrary power; not merely for all Americans, but for all." Moments later, he called for changes in the Taft-Hartley Act, including Section 14(b) -- changes that would mean a return to nationwide compulsory union membership!

Another paradox is Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz. He said, in a Detroit address in 1963 during a Michigan celebration of the 100th Anniversary of Emancipation Proclamation, "The large edifice of civil rights is dependent on equality of employment opportunity. . . if men are to be truly free in accord with the tenents of democracy, then they must be free to seek a livelihood without prejudice."

It is unfortunate that Secretary Wirtz seems to be speaking out for all men when in reality he appears to mean only some men. For as an outspoken opponent of the right to work he certainly is not including those who do not choose to unionize.

A really strange outlook on human rights is presented by Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Auto Workers. He said recently in Selma, "When you deny freedom to any person, you are destroying your own freedom." Perhaps we should remind Mr. Reuther of the fact that organized labor is today denying freedom to millions of individuals making up our "minority" groups. An excellent example of this is provided by three men in Evansville, Indiana, who face dismissal from their jobs because they contend that their religious beliefs (they are members of the Christadelphian faith) forbid them to join a union. Is Mr. Reuther concerned with the individual rights of these three men? Hardly!

Is there "equality of employment opportunity" for the man who seeks work but cannot obtain it because of his refusal to join an organization against his will? Is the non-union worker who applies for a job in a compulsory union atmosphere "free to seek a livelihood without prejudice?"

Regarding the Negro drive to obtain fair treatment in the job market, countless cases have emerged where Negro and other minority groups workers were denied admittance to a trade due to the exclusionary practices of many closed shop unions. Because of the compulsory union situation, these exclused minority group workers were thwarted in their pursuit of the basic American right to seek employment in one's chosen field.

Thus the civil and human rights of all American workers stand in real and/or potential danger due to the bane of compulsory unionism.

Speak out, for there is a war going on. The shame of it all is that we, who claim to be citizens of the United States of America, are losing and we don't have the time to speak up and fight for a victory that must be won.

What war is going on? Well, there is war in Santo Domingo, Viet Nam and there is always a crisis in Cuba. But none of these is the war that lies the closest to the soul of America right now. It sleeps right around you every night.

The stabbing victim whose last earthly vision is the face of a sick intern watching his first patient die. It is the little girl who will suffer all of her precious life because she turned out to be the target of merciless raptist.

In the crime series that appear on television, (M-Squad, Man From U.N.C.L.E., G-Men, etc.) they always manage to come up with their criminals.

In real life, the truth is that the police officer catches a criminal only 25 times out of a hundred.

The writers of the real life script have put flesh and blood policemen which no stalwart of Central Casting will ever have to endure.

NON-SUPPORTED POLICE

It is expected by the police officer that he will be assaulted in the line of duty. But, this is not the largest burden that is carried by him in his tireless, thankless, but most of all, dangerous rounds. Worse than any of the things mentioned, the policeman learns early that he is the victim of non-support.

Witnesses will serenely watch murder, rape, break-ins, the worst things possible that can be realized by a human and his thinking facilities. They will watch thugs set up to beat the hell out of a policeman and won't even take the time to call the authorities.

What we need here in America is a cure against this inexcusable failure to down the most fearless enemy that is facing us. Even daring us to do anything about it.

Right here in the city of Sikeston people will permit fights, stabblings, embezzlement and won't even report them to the authorities. There have been some cases that it has been impossible for the police to catch the criminal for they can't get any information from people they know were on the scene. What people don't seem to realize is that next time it might be themselves that gets mugged, stabbed, or cheated out of his earnings. Perhaps then a person would appreciate some information given concerning him and the person who mugged him.

Beyond all this however, a policeman must also learn early that he will have to do his job over and over endlessly, for the thugs, swindlers, robbers, etc., will probably be out again to what seems to come the most natural for them. In the United States about 80 per cent of the time the crimes that are committeed are by repeaters.

This means that the hoodlum, the cop fighters, the sex offenders, the career burglars, the stick-up artist is a four-to-one bet to be graduated of our system of law.

To the policeman this means that he is to do his job again and again. To society it means that $3.2 billion is wasted out of the $4. billion spent annually against crimes.

BENEFITS OF COMPANY ADVERTISING

The trade center which depends entirely on agriculture has practically vanished.

Even in the more rural areas, industry helps to supplement community economy. Problems which did not exist in the old country town arise when a farm community becomes a part-time manufacturing community.

Problems are largely a matter of communication. Larger industries have long recognized the need to establish lines of communications between the company and local citizens, employees, and community leaders.

In smaller communities, industry officials are finding that the community newspaper may do the whole job better than any combination of media. Certainly the local newspaper is less expensive than the variety of publications sometimes used to reach all levels of the local citizenry. The local paper is carefully read by company employees, community leaders, and the general public. Communications from industry concerning labor problems, policies, plans, and current activities are carried in both news and advertising sections.

Any newspaper is glad to carry bonafide general news and feature stories about local industries. In most small communities more such news would be used if it were made available to industry.

Similarly, advertising which is concerned with the promotion of company interests can, and does, result in numerous benefits in maintaining better community and employee relations.

There were six other states with five or more residents killed on Missouri roadways in 1964. They include: California, 11; Minnesota, 10; Wisconsin and Michigan each with seven; and both Texas and Indiana had five of their citizens listed as traffic fatalities in Missouri.

Also included in the number of out-of-state people killed in Missouri traffic were those from as far south as Florida, from the northeast State of Vermont, from as far west as Washington and as already mentioned, from as far north as Canada.

The youngest out - of - state resident to be listed as a Missouri traffic fatality last year was an eight week old girl from the State of Kansas. The oldest known non-Missourian killed was a 76 year old man from California.

"Many out-of-state people killed on Missouri roadways are on vacation trips or just passing through," declared Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol. "They are not always familiar with the area and often make sudden turns and stops on our streets and highways. Missouri motorists should show extra courtesy to the visiting travelers. At the same time, Missourians must drive with extra caution when motoring in other states."

DOING IT THE HARD WAY

A man came to the evangelist Sam Jones and said, "Mr. Jones, I know only one verse of Scripture, and I know that one is true: 'The way of the transgressor is hard.'" Whoever that man was, he had by bitter experience discovered an essential truth: this is God's universe. He makes the rules for all who live, and when we go against Him we must take the troublesome consequesces.

Two ways open before us: God's way and our way. We are free to go our own way, but if we do we must accept the responsibility for and the consequences for such action. It is written in the Book, and it is written in human experience: "The way of the transgressor is hard."

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel burdened. Sin has a way of accumulating weight until every step along our self-chosen path is a wearisome strain. The cynic may scoff at sin and say, "It's all right if you can get away with it." But the truth is that no one ever "got away with" evil because we can never get away from ourselves.

Remember Hawthorne's book, "The Scarlet Letter"? Hester was condemned to wear the scarlet letter "A" which stood for adulteress. There it was on the breast of her gown for all to see and sneer at. The father of her child was not named. Did he then escape the blame and shame? It seemed that he did, for he was honored and respected. No one knew. Or did they? He knew, and the knowledge ate his vitals, ruined his appetite, robbed his sleep. Then, finally, admitting his guilt to the townspeople, he tore open his shirt to show the scarlet letter "A" written in his own blood above his heart. He had imprinted it. He could not get away from himself.

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel nowhere. All living things move and all purposeful movement must have a goal. A man who has a true goal may encounter difficulties along the way or even be prevented temporarily from making desirable progress. But if his goal is worthy, he is on the right road and every step brings him nearer fulfillment.

The man with a false goal is a deluded and purposeless traveler. Any seeming progress is a fantasy, for the closer he gets to his goal, the further he is from achieving what he really wants. God is our true Home, as every prodigal son and daughter has found out. Away from Him, we are in a foreign country. When we come back to Him we are at home.

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel alone. Seeing the large number of people who walk this way, it would appear to be both crowded and companionable. But if ever a man can be alone in a crowd, he is alone in this one. All the burdens are self-imposed. All the goals are self-chosen. So he bears his burden alone, and he plods toward his goal alone.

But it is because of his isolation from God that the transgressor is most alone. In transgressing, we not only violate divine law, we reject divine love. The real penalty for sin is alienation from God. The sinner pays not only in what he suffers but in what he misses. Those who refuse to go God's way find themselves at last alone in the dead-end situation to which their own rebellious blundering has led them.

God wills what is best for us here and hereafter. When we will to do other than His will, we are going against Love. Is it any wonder that we find the way of the transgressor the hard way?

There is only one way to make the transgressor's road easier. If, seeing the error of his way, he takes the way to the Cross he will find a new road leading from Calvary, a road of pardon and peace. He will know the relief of the lifted burden, the new sense of purpose in a worthy goal, and best of all, he will find a way in fellowship with God--the way of an obedient son.

THE "BOY"

The Marquis de Lafayette was in love and his ardor was as intense as his name was long--Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier Lafayette.

His love affair with America began, it is said, in August, 1775 at a candle-lit dinner in Metz, France. At this elegant dinner, the conversation at one point shifted to the subject of the "insurgents," the name given American rebels by Europeans.

The Marquis, a quixotic youth of 18, was so inflamed by the talk of a people fighting for liberty, that he immediately thought of offering his services.

After a year of involved negotiations, he was given the rank of major general in the Continental Army by Silas Deane, representative of the "Confederation of States" in Paris.

Deane offered the high rank to the Marquis because of "the great dignities which his family holds at this (French) Court, his reputation, and zeal for the liberty of our provinces. ."

His announced love of America and his plans to help the colonies caused him to fall in temporary disfavor with the French King. However, on April 17,1777, Lafayette left his young wife, his despairing family, and the disfavor of the king behind him by sailing to the Colonies. In August, he met General Washington and became one of the General's aides. But the exuberance of youth would not be thwarted; he wanted a command, only a small one at first. Then, perhaps a large one for so large an exuberance once it was proven to be tempered by battle.

Congress replied that Lafayette's rank was an honorary one and that Congress "never meant Lafayette to be given a command and will not countenance him in his application."

So, Lafayette decided to prove himself. He was wounded at the battle of Brandywine in September, 1777, and Washington again asked Congress to give the Marquis a command. Before Congress could do anything, Lafayette distinguished himself by leading 400 men in a successful New Jersey skirmish against the British.

On December 1, Congress proved it could be convinced by passing a resolution that "It is highly agreeable to Congress" to give the Marquis command of a division.

Later, after fighting in Virginia, Lafayette (contemptuously called "the boy" by the British General Cornwallis) pursued Cornwallis in a very unboyish manner to Yorktown where the British were defeated. "The boy" had proved to be an adept, competent, and often wily military commander.

His patriotism for his adopted country was well-expressed by him after he was wounded at Brandywine:

"The moment I heard of America, I loved her. . . ."

Prayers and perspiration aren't compatible, Catholic Marget magazine finds.

The arguments against air conditioning in churches, however, always center on one thing: money. Yet churches with air conditioning have found the investment is compensated for by the collections resulting from a rise in attendance.

The pastors of St. Anne's in north Minneapolis and St. Patrick's, New Orleans, have proved that air conditioning in their churches has paid for itself.

NAME FOR A PRINCIPLE

Numerous organizations opposed to the policies of the Administration and acting with the desire to reorganize an effective opposition party are springing up throughout the country.

Almost without exception these movements hang a millstone around their neck by using the word "Conservative" as a predominant part of their title. They readily ignore any suggestions that "conservative" is not a vote-getting vehicle. They are afraid without using the word "Conservative" the public will not understand what they are trying to do.

They seem unwilling to consider for a moment what happened in the recent elections in Canada, Britain, and the U. S. to parties advancing their philosophies as "Conservative."

They could ascertain that three Gallup polls in 1950, April 15, May 14 and June 25, showed that "Conservative" as a name for a philosophy was 15 percentage points less popular than Republican as a name for a political party. The imagination of a thought group is not tied down and curtailed. It carries the romance of exploration, experimentation and adventure and its name should be more popular than any political party. The party must be plagued with unfulfilled promises and unpleasant records subject to criticism. Yet they could easily find that in New York today "Republican" is at least 35 rating points more popular than "Conservative."

Nearly any title hoping to cope with the romantic title, "liberal," is preferable to "Conservative," but the three-syllable word "constructive" as an adjective, verb or noun is specific, promising and above attack.

No one can ever be condemned for being "too constructive."

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A policeman lolled beside the steps of the Dominican Embassy on 22nd Street. He looked bored. There may have been Communist-inspired snipers and gunfire and hand grenades in the streets of Santo Domingo far to the south, but no Communists upset the quiet calm of Embassy Row in Washington.

A lavender wisteria, dazzling in the May sunshine, was the only excitement in the street.

A block away on R Street, another policeman lolled in front of the residence of the Puerto Rican Commissioner. The former Governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, a frequent target for assassin's bullets, was inside. But the policeman outside looked bored.

He sauntered down the street to confer with the other cop guarding the Dominican Embassy. A small boy, aged about five, from the Pakistani Chancery across the way, was the only excited person on Embassy Row. "You got two guns," he chortled with glee. And he kept repeating it, "You got two guns, you got two guns."

Pakistani, whence the small boy came, receives annually from the United States $700,000,000 of American aid and military hardware, which is more than all the foreign aid going to all of Latin America under the Alliance for Progress. Part of that hardware is being used to fight an active war against India. No wonder the Pakistani boy was interested in guns.

The two policemen compared notes, then sauntered back to resume their boring vigil. They had been instructed to look out for bombs and there were no bombs. The two officers did not know it, but behind them as they stood on R Street was the house where A. Mitchell Palmer, Woodrow Wilson's Attorney General, had his front door blown off by an alleged Communist bomber in the months right after World War I.

—3 HORSEMEN OF DEMOCRACY—

Two blocks up the street, past dainty pink crab apple trees, stood the Costa Rican Embassy. No policeman was outside. Costa Rica is a democratic country which doesn't believe in armies and apparently no one around it worried about being bombed. One man inside certainly wasn't worrying.

He was Jose "Pepi" Figueres, former President of Costa Rica, hastily summoned to Washington to help straighten out the mess in Santo Domingo.

"I'm a farmer now," he said. "Today I'm like the Catholic gardener who got a call from the Pope — and the Pope is a lot more important to a Catholic than President Johnson — 'I can't go,' he said, 'I'm only half through my weeding.'

"I was only half through planting my corn when I got a call to come up here."

Pepi Figueres has long been called one of the "Three Caribbean Horsemen of Democracy," the other two being Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico and ex-President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Just three blocks away, on Massachusetts, was Betancourt. He too had turned up in Washington to use his influence to turn the U.S. Marine Corps occupation of the Dominican Republic from another "Bay of Pigs" fiasco to constructive cooperation for Pan America.

"I was up in the woods outside New York in a hideaway not even Drew Pearson could find," said ex-Governor Munoz of Puerto Rico, "when I got word to come down here."

All three know Santo Domingo well. Betancourt of Venezuela knows it best, still bears the raw, red scars on his hands where a bomb, touched off by the henchmen of Dominican Dictator Trujillo, trapped him in his limousine and almost roasted him alive.

"In 1958," said ex-President Figueres, "I wrote a report recommending a UN trusteeship for the Dominican Republic. Juan Bosch, who later became President, read it and said, 'Yes, it will happen in twenty-five years, but not now.'

"That was only seven years ago. Today the OAS has set up what amounts to a Pan American trusteeship for the Dominican Republic." He referred to the OAS vote for a Pan American Army to co-operate with American Marines in bringing order out of chaos.

—NARROW SQUEAK FOR LBJ—

"This goes further than I ever dreamed," said the ex-President of Costa Rica. "I never thought we could put it across with the OAS."

The vote to put it across was only 14, just enough to win. Had the vote been delayed another two hours, it would have been negative; for the Venezuelan ambassador, who abstained, received instructions from Caracas, two hours later, to vote against the Pan American army.

Not even ex-President Betancourt of Venezuela was able to persuade his government to vote with the United States. There was too much bitterness in the streets of Caracas.

Ex-Governor Munoz Marin, talking to President Johnson, proposed that a Latin American general be placed in command of the OAS army. "It would restore confidence in the United States." He recommended Gen. Antonio Briceno Linares, former Venezuelan Minister of Defense, who has spent much of his life fighting Communism.

The three democratic Horsemen of the Caribbean finished their conversations. The two policemen lazying along Embassy Row went home. The lavender wisteria remained brilliant and beautiful in the fading rays of the afternoon sun.

—FROSTING ON AEROSPACE CAKE—

If the House Armed Forces Subcommittee, headed by able Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., digs deeper it will find that the taxpayers' loss wasn't confined to building and land extravagance in the establishment of the Air Force's big Research and Planning contractor, the Aerospace Corp.

Besides the putting green for the recreation of employees—mentioned at a recent hearing—there was other frosting on the cake. The taxpayers also footed the entire bill for such employee "incentive" luxuries as an outdoor dining area, a scenic mall, shuffleboard courts, and table tennis facilities.

All this was installed at the new aerospace plant at El Segundo, Calif., south of Los Angeles, as part of an overall cost of $15,121,000 for buildings completed early last year. A smaller plant at San Bernardino, 900 miles away, meantime has cost the government $6,900,000.

The shuffleboard courts and other swank additives may have made aerospace employees happier in their work, but the taxpayers won't be happy about Rep. Hardy's revelations that $12,000,000 could have been saved on the El Segundo project had government land and available buildings (in the custody of the General Services Administration) been fully used.

Also, Hardy's investigators estimate that another $5,200,000 could have been saved at San Bernardino had nearby Air Force buildings been utilized. This hardly complies with the state policy of Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert in 1961, which stressed that the Federal government should supply facilities for defense contractors whenever possible.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP--Kim Chi rarely sells a star sapphire to an American service man without first applying a blowtorch to it to prove it isn't glass.

Watching Kim Chi earnestly foot pedal the torch as he turns the hot flame on two pieces of glitter on a slab is one of the best acts in the Far East. The glass melts, the real gem doesn't.

"Glass fini," exclaims Kim Chi triumphantly. "But ruby no fini. Emerald no fini. Star sapphire no fini." The impressed GI dutifully forks over $10 or $20 and another victory is chalked up for Oriental salesmanship.

Every war zone needs a native "can-do" man to get things done. "Can-do" man here is undoubtedly Kim Chi. If he can't do it for you, it can't be done.

Kim Chi is a slender man of 39 who stands out because he always wears a black necktie. He looks about 21 but he has eight children and is buoyantly inarticulate in about the same number of languages.

"I learn English by myself," he said proudly, and no one could doubt it.

Kim Chi runs three jewelry stores and is the GI's pal when it comes to changing money, getting laundry done, or having a pair of shoes made. If he's not in that particular line of work himself, he has a relative or close friend who is.

Over a pair of beers which he insisted on buying, Kim Chi explained his philosophy:

"I like the soldiers. Most of our people like the American soldiers. It makes sentiment between us.

"I no get big profit. I try to make all people happy.

"Wife work in stores with me. Children too small."

As to the quality of his torch-tested wares, Capt. Floyd R. Rockhart, 32, a helicopter air rescue pilot from Mogadore, Ohio, said:

"I gave Kim Chi an old jacket and $3 for an emerald and sent it home to my wife. She had it assayed by a jeweler back home, and he told her it is worth between $30 and $40."

Kim Chi wants to become the biggest jewelry dealer in Viet Nam. As I left he insisted on giving me a Buddhist good luck charm, a rough stone which he said was an uncut star sapphire, six old bronze coins, and a green-blue-red gem called an alexandrite.

"I like to go to America sometime and study how do business there," said Kim Chi with wistful good will.

There is little I think we could teach Kim Chi. He is a born can-do man, and I think Tiffany's is lucky he is over here.

Woman's Society Of Christian Service Has Luncheon Meeting

"Salt, Light and String" was the theme of the program when the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met May 5.

Mrs. Robert Dempster, president of W. S. C. S. was leader of the program which was divided into five services --- memorial, membership, world bank, pledge and commitment.

Mrs. M. L. Canedy was soloist at the close of each service. Mrs. Elmer Childress was accompanist.

Mrs. Myrtle Moll conducted a memorial service for the following deceased members: Mrs. Ella Shuppert, Mrs. A. J. Goetz, Mrs. Lonnie Harrison, Mrs. J. H. Galeener, Mrs. Marie Conklin, Mrs. Belle Morrison and Mrs. Jake Sutton.

Life memberships were presented to Mrs. W. L. Huters, Mrs. E. F. Wiedemann and Mrs. Joe Dye. Mrs. Dempsey Gardner, Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. John O. Ensor had charge of this service.

The World Bank Service was conducted by Mrs. Joe Dye.

Mrs. Stella Emory conducted the pledge service. Mrs. Vincent Wissman, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. Thatcher Scism and Mrs. Joe Leslie each read a brief pledge which contained food for thought for all members. Pledge cards were signed by members at this time.

Rev. Joseph Wagner gave an inspiring talk on "Commitment of Time."

The program was closed by members forming a circle and reading in unison a prayer of reaffirming Discipleship.

In a business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Robert Dempster, announcements were made.

Mrs. Raymert Miller gave a report of the District Conference held at Columbia, Missouri. Mrs. Robert Dempster and Mrs. M. L. Canedy also attended this conference.

Mrs. Tanner Dye, Mrs. Bert Rowe and Mrs. Thatcher Scism were installed as District officers at the W. S. C. S. District meeting held at Poplar Bluff May 5 and each received Life Memberships. Mrs. John O. Ensor, Mrs. Myrtle Moll, Mrs. Robert Dempster, Mrs. Stella Emory, Mrs. Vincent Wissman and Mrs. Earl Allen were also in attendance at the W. S. C. S. District Meeting.

Rev. W. A. Spencer announced open house for the church May 16.

He stated that a series of slides and film strips would be shown explaining the work of the church on the local level up to the jurisdictional level.

Names were drawn for placement of members in the nine circles of the W. S. C. S. Members of Circle 4, with Mrs. Raymert Miller as chairman, served a delicious luncheon in the dining room.

Meats for Ground Beef

During 1964, 2.7 billion pounds of ground beef were consumed in this country alone. This comes to almost 15 pounds per person.

What cuts of meat does the retailer use in making ground beef? He has several available to him, usually less-tender cuts like chuck, brisket, short plate, shank, flank and round are used for grinding. Grinding cuts the fibers and thus makes ground beef tender enough for broiling, panbroiling, frying or roasting (baking) as meat loaf.

Hamburger Day To Be May 15

The Sikeston Girl Scouts are continually active in their community. They readily give to those in need and are willing in all that they partake. During the Christmas season, they gave of their time to prepare a Christmas tree for the children in the hospital.

Now they take on a different project, this being Hamburger Day. This will be held May 15, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any girl in Troop 201 or 11. The meal includes hamburgers, potato salad, slaw and cake. See you at the American Legion Hall on May 15.

Miss Joanne Yant And John Russell Tanner Exchange Vows In California

The Trinity Episcopal Church, San Jose, California, was the scene Saturday, April 24, of the wedding of Miss Joanne Yant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Yant of Casper, Wyoming, and John Russell Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tanner of Sikeston.

The Reverend William B. Murdock, pastor of the church, officiated using the double ring ceremony. Arrangements of white lilies, snapdragons, and carnations were used in the altar decorations.

Mrs. Mildred Shepherd, church organist, played introductory selections by Titcomb, DuBois and Bach. The wedding march was Trumpet Voluntary in D by Purcell.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite empire style gown of pure white silk organza and French Alencon lace that featured a chapel-length train. The bodice of the dress and circular matilla veil were also of Alencon lace.

She carried a bouquet of white rose buds and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Stephen P. Henderson served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Donna Chayer and Mrs. William Luring. Their dresses were of pale yellow silk crepe. The attendants' gowns were floor-length and created with empire waistlines. They wore matching tulle veil hats; each attendant carried crescent shaped bouquets of yellow rose buds and white marquerites.

Thomas H. Baughey, best man, Wally F. Altom and Howard W. Yant, ushers, served as the groom's attendants.

Mrs. Yant chose for her daughter's wedding a sage green silk lace dress, matching hat and shoes with beige gloves and purse.

Mrs. Tanner wore a beige and turquoise silk brocade dress with beige accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of golden orchids.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Yant entertained with a reception and wedding breakfast at "17" West Restaurant. Mrs. Wally F. Altom was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was decorated with a tiered wedding cake topped by a white rosebud nosegay and the bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets.

WEDDING TRIP

The bride's going away ensemble was a natural colored raw silk suit and matching accessories. The couple left for a wedding trip to northern California. They are now at home in San Jose, California. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tanner on Friday evening before the wedding.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests at the Yant - Tanner wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Yant of Casper, Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. H. Harrison Tanner of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. SKIMMER — Frills and flounces keynote this low-waisted, sleeveless dress by Kate Greenaway. Styled with a one-shoulder opening, it's in raspberry-colored cotton flocked with dainty white dots. The Lowenstein fabric is wash and wear cotton.

On Dec. 23, 1777, Gen. George Washington wrote in his diary at Valley Forge, about 20 miles northwest of Philadelphia: "We have this day no less than 2,873 men in camp unfit for duty because they are barefooted and otherwise naked. . . . Numbers are still obliged to sit all night by fires." The troops, which numbered about 11,000, spent the winter in log huts and received little in the way of food and clothing. Later, the winter encampment became the first training camp of any United States forces.

Girl Scouting

By MARSHA GREENE

I am a Girl Scout and am a member of Troop #201. Scouting means a lot to me because of all the many expertences I have had as a member of the scouting movement. Such things as camping, helping others, taking trips and so many other things have made my youth so much more meaningful.

We finance all our trips and other costly undertakings by the profits we receive from different types of money-making projects. On Saturday, May 15, one of these projects will be going on and you, the people of this area, can help my Troop, #201 and also Troop #13, by attending our Hamburger Day. It will be held at the American Legion Hall from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Orders will also be delivered out so if you can't come to the hall, call and your order will be delivered to your door. Help the Girl Scouts of America by participating in this project and also help yourself by getting a good meal on Saturday, May 15.

Strength For These Days From The Bible

Establish my footsteps in thy word.—(Psalms 119:133).

We may see evidence of disorder in our life and affairs but we do not need to continue in the pattern that brought it about. Turn to God and rely wholly on Him. Know that everything that concerns us is brought into perfect balance by His orderly action. Let God guide us.

I wish the churches were as afraid of imperfection as they are of perfection. — Billy Graham

Pinch hitter Johnny Briggs powered the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Philadelphia Monday night.

Briggs doubled as a pinch hitter for pitcher Jack Baldschun in the ninth inning and scored a run to tie it 2-2 on a single from John Callison.

Then in the 10th inning Briggs smashed a towering drive over the right field wall with one man on to give the Phillies their victory.

Tim McCarver got the first St. Louis run with a homer in the fifth but Philadelphia tied it in the seventh. St. Louis went ahead in the eighth when Mike Shannon scored on a slow grounder off the bat of Dick Groat.

The loss dropped St. Louis three games below .500 with a 10-13 record.

Bob Gibson (5-0), who has accounted for half the games the redbirds have won this season starts tonight against the New York Mets at New York. Warren Spahn (2-2) will start for the Mets.

Big Eight Track Meet

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. AP--The Big Eight tuned up for the 37th track championships this weekend in Lincoln with a world record by Oklahoma State in the two-mile relay, a swift 440-220 double by Oklahoma's Bill Calhoun and several other good marks.

The OSU quartet ran 7:18.3 at the West Coast Relays in Fresno, Calif., Saturday night, smashing the world mark of 7:19. The four Cowboy runners averaged just under 1:49.6 per man, as Jim Metcalf ran 1:50.6, John Perry 1:47.5, Tom Ruden 1:49.2 and Dave Perry 1:51.

The application for the world mark will list it as 7:18. 2-5 because international rules require the nearest one-fifth of a second at the distance.

Two other season bests were set by the league, as Bill Calhoun ran a 21-flat 220, just one-tenth off the meet record around one turn, and Gene Crews of Missouri put the shot 57-8 1/4. Calhoun also won the 440 in 47.7.

The conference is counting Calhoun's 220 as the season best because Missouri's Charles Allen had a slight tailwind in his 21-flat a week earlier.

Overall, the weekend marks were slight off the pervious week because most coaches don't want to risk injuries ahead of the big meet by going all-out.

Even so, there were some fine marks. Lowell Paul of Kansas ran 1:50.8, just one-tenth off the league season best. It was his career best. Charlie Greene of Nebraska and Jim Jackson of Oklahoma both ran 9.5 in the 100. K-State's Bill Floerke, the national leader at 266-5 1/2 in the Kansas Relays, threw the javelin 237-9 1/2. KU's Purma had a career best, 230-6.

Oklahoma's Jim Farrell vaulted 15-4 and Phil Manuel of Kansas went 15 feet, a career best. Nebraska's defending Big Eight outdoor 440 champion, Dave Crook, ran 47.5. Missouri miler Robin Lingle, with a career best of 4:01.7, was an easy winner in 4:12.2.

Kansas swept both the mile and two-mile to win 78-67 at Oklahoma. Missouri won 82-63 at Nebraska. Iowa State won 102-43 at South Dakota but lost hurdler John Adams with an ankle injury. K-State edged Air Force 74-71 at Manhattan by winning the mile relay in the rain. Colorado will try again today to get in its meet with Denver and Colorado State.

Eleven of the 17 meet records will be in jeopardy Friday and Saturday at Lincoln. Two national collegiate records could go. Jim Miller of Colorado already holds the collegiate and American mark of 36.1 in the 330 hurdles. Floerke could get the collegiate javelin mark of 273-10 set by Bill Alley of Kansas five years ago.

Greene is pointing for a 9.3 and hinting broadly that he may go after the 220, which he seldom runs although he did 20.5 in high school.

It will be the last shot at a team crown for Bill Easton, Kansas coach whose teams have dominated the league for 18 years. Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Nebraska all have a good shot at the championship.

Sports TALK

By DON SAVAGE

Missouri's turkey hunters killed over a hundred wild turkeys more this season than last, according to preliminary reports from turkey checking station.

The total this season, April 27 through 30, was 476 according to the early reports. The totals -- especially the county totals -- could change somewhat when check station records are analyzed.

In the early reports however, Madison is shown as the leading county this season with 55 kills, while Iron reported 49. Other high counties reported were Ste. Genevieve with 39, St. Francois with 34, Philps with 32, and Dent with 31.

As usual, the largest kill was reported opening day when 187 birds were taken. The kill on the second day was 94, but the third day, April 29, was a better one with 108 kills reported. Hunters took a reported 87 turkeys the last day of the season.

Last season's kill was 369, a success ration of 1 turkey for each 8.6 hunters. Permit sales totalled 2,961 last year. Permit sales have not been audited for this season and no figure is available.

$150,000. Preakness To Be Run Saturday

BALTIMORE AP -- A fairly definite field of 10 for Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness showed today that Lucky Debonair still has to do some convincing that he's the class of the 3-year-old thoroughbred racing crop.

"I don't know what else he has to do," wondered trainer Frank Catrone. "But every time he wins, they seem to find some excuse why he might not have, or shouldn't.

"He's won six out of nine races and was second the other three times. What more can you ask?"

After Lucky Debonair won the Kentucky Derby May 1, speculators dwelled on what might have happed if Dapper Dan had started moving a little sooner or the race had been just a little bit longer. He was last at three-quarters of a mile and only a neck behind Lucky at the end of the 1 1/4 miles.

It would have made no difference, according to the confident Catrone.

"He wasn't going to pass my horse," declared the trainer. "They could have run around the track again."

When Lucky Debonair first popped into prominence by beating Jacinto in the Santa Anita Derby, there also were skeptics. They cited on extremely fast workout before the race by Jacinto, taking too much out of him.

Jacinto hasn't raced since his licking by Lucky Debonair. He came to Pimlico last Saturday for the Preakness Prep but aggravated an ankle injury and is back on the sidelines.

Owners of six other starters in the Kentucky Derby were undaunted by Lucky Debonair's triumph and are pacing around waiting for the Preakness.

In addition to Dapper Dan, the horses are Tom Rolfe, Native Charger, Hail to All, Swift Ruler and Flag Raiser.

Trainer Hirsch Jacobs will not only give Flag Raiser another shot in the middle event of the Triple Crown but will send out Turn To Reason.

Both were winners last Saturday, Flag Raiser in the Withers Mile in New York and Turn To Reason in a division of the Illinois Derby.

Also listed as firm entries are Needle's Count, winner of the Preakness Preg after Jacinto's withdrawal, and Selari, a recent winner at Garden State over Bosun, which had been one of the highly rated 2-year-olds of 1964.

BATTING -- Carl Yastrzemski, Boston, drove in all of the Red Sox runs in a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees with two homers and a sacrifice fly.

PITCHING -- Mel Nelson, Minnesota, saved a 4-3 triumph for the Twins over the Chicago White Sox by coming on in relief in the ninth inning with two on and none out and retiring the next three batters.

tiny impurities
(before they get to your tank!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency...could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It guards against tiny impurities (present in all gasolines) right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Selma Street from Matthews City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. SALES TAX BECOMING GROSS RECEIPTS TAX

The House has passed and sent on to the Senate a measure aimed at closing the loopholes now existing in the state sales tax collection system and which if allowed to remain could cost Missouri an estimated $6 million annually.

Under the present system of collecting the sales tax, a bracket affair is employed whereby nothing is charged on sales under 24 cents. From 25 cents to 50 cents the tax is a penny; from 51 to 74 cents it's two cents; and from 75 cents to a dollar, the tax is three cents.

Under a companion bill to the gross receipts tax measure, a new bracketing program would be established providing a penny tax on sales of 15 cents to 54 cents; two cents on sales from 55 cents to 80 cents; and three cents up to a dollar.

The big catch in the new measure providing for a gross receipt tax appears to be that operators of such coin devices as vending machines would have to pay an across the board three per cent on their total sales.

Opponents of the change have contended that it's merely a new way to increase taxes, but Majority Floor leader Mel Carnahan, who pushed the measure after the death of its sponsor, H. F. Patterson, discounts this agrument.

"It is merely recouping a loss in the tax structure on transactions which we thought were covered before the court opinion in the automatic vendors case," Carnahan said.

If the companion bill setting up a new bracketing system fails, which seems improbable, officials indicate the old brackets would remain in effect.

Carnahan said he has little doubt that the measure will pass the Senate handily, especially in view of the need for more state funds.

VANLANDINGHAM ENDORSES GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESTION

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham of Boone County has given his endorsement to a proposal calling for a vote by the people on whether a governor should succeed himself.

The measure already has been approved by the House and Senate Judiciary Committee and Vanlandingham feels it has a good chance for passage.

In a recent report to his constituents, Vanlandingham quoted remarks by Governor Warren Hearnes, a staunch supporter of the proposal:

"A governor runs on a legislative platform and is held by the public responsible for initiating policy. He is held responsible for expressing the views of the state on new issues arising during the tenure of his office. He should have sufficient time to carry out these policies and programs and the people should have the right to judge the success or failure of a governor."

MANY BILLS BOGGED DOWN IN COMMITTEE

The great majority of bills introduced in both house of the General Assembly this session remain bogged down in committee with few except, perhaps the most important, standing any chance of being brought out.

The second week in May saw some 220 bills in various stages of readiness on the House calendar while more than 100 remained on the Senate agenda.

It appears to be a general feeling around the capitol that few others will be released in time by committee to do any good. However, many appropriation bills remain to be finalized by committee even though time is running short.

WAR ON POVERTY APPEARS TO BE PROGRESSING WELL

According to officials in the Missouri office of Urban Affairs which is charged with helping fight the War on Poverty in Missouri, the effort is moving ahead rapidly and the state reportedly leads the other states in the number of projects either in force or being contemplated.

Philip V. Maher, a former Clayton attorney who heads the Urban Affairs department, notes that the agency actually is a coordinating body to aid the various counties in initiating locally-run programs.

Now on application in Washington is a project dubbed "Operation Headstart" which is aimed at helping pre-school youngsters secure a background placing them on a par with more fortunate kids by the time they reach school age.

Other projects in the works include the training of women at the old VA hospital facility at Excelsior Springs; neighborhood youth programs; conservative projects; and aid to needy college students.

The "Sound of Music" Cast
c-o Hope Terrell, Director
835 William St.
Sikeston, Mo.
"To All of You":

One could not find enough words to tell all of you what a beautiful, magnificient, talented show was seen to-nite in Sikeston. It was the finest performance we have ever seen — including those seen in St. Louis Muny opera and others.

Would like to say "Thanks" to every one connected with this production for a most enjoyable three hrs. every spent in Sikeston — and "JoAnne Fox", Miss Julie Andrews has nothing on you as "Maria".

Every comment & critic in auditorium was nothing but 'Superb' — The standing ovation was well deserved.

"Sikeston Review"
by J. Davis

The "Sound of Music" presented by the Sikeston Little Theatre opened last nite to a packed house and reviews from other papers are coming in as the cast await word of Success or failure at the Lounge of the Mitchell's. From "Variety" America's top show biz mag. critics' predicted a long, long run. "Voices were superb in every part, and Director Terrell, Producer Mitchell & Musical Producer Fox have a glamorous "Hit" on Tanner (Broadway) St. "7". Curtain calls & a standing ovation was given the cast for its beautiful performance." Jo Anne Fox as "Maria" carried the show to it's top ratings. Her voice was beautiful as she hit the notes and octaves. A bright future for Jo Anne Fox.

From "Show Biz" mag, quote —"Quite a show and performance by all — Patsy Mitchell as Mother Abbess, Carole Sue Clayton as Elsa, Bill Hailey as Max and Alan Harris as Capt. Von Trapp gave outstanding singing performances as their voices sang out the Rodgers & Hammerstein hit song. No worry for these four on Broadway for next few years."

From "Down Beat" — quote "Music & direction outstanding; The "Sisters" voices blended to-gether in perfect harmony & added to the show as this hit production unfolded its beautiful. Art scenery designs located in Austrian Alps, Sound effects & lighting added to the already spoken "Bravos".

From "Broadway Beacon" critics praised the performance of all the children in cast; quote — "Everyone gave top performances, and Patty McMullin as "Leisl the teen-ager and ingenue part gave a lift to the show as her beautiful voice sang the "Do-Ra-Me— & Russ Felker as "Rolf" just couldn't be replaced as his part was meant for his cute, comedy serious part."

From others around the city, critics & audiences were kind as many praised all the commey scenes of T. Slatter & W. W. Wilkison & Veronica Henry & Wm. Spencer: Quite a show; quite an ovation for all. According to ticket chairman Barb Smith & Billie McCann, advance sales are soaring.

As reviews pour in, all we can see is that the cast should be a proud group as they all gave the best performance seen on "Tanner St." in many years — Just a big congratulation to all for a job well done —

matter of fact

For nearly 1,500 years after the catastrophe of the year 79, which destroyed Pompeii and two other cities, volcanic Mount Vesuvius remained inactive until it erupted violently on Dec. 16, 1631, killing at least 18,000 persons. Since this great convulsion, which emptied the crater, Vesuvius has never again lapsed into a totally inactive condition. Because of this the height of the mountain varies. After the great eruption of 1906 the height went from 4,275 feet down to 3,668 feet.

Sikeston beat Cape Girardeau Sunday in the first game of the season to the tune of 4 to 3.

The highest average daily attendance for a month in the Sikeston public schools was reached in March, when the average was 1,083 pupils, according to Supt. Roy V. Ellise. The lowest daily average was reached in January with 924 in attendance.

Local filling stations buying products of the Standard Oil Co., have suspended the sale of ethyl gasoline, under orders from the company. This kind of gas has been greatly discussed recently as a source of lead poisoning.

The Standard family thanks Mrs. N. I. Kirby for a box of fine strawberries from her own patch. About a year ago while on a visit in Tennessee, she secured some plants, set them out in her garden and so far this season has gathered over 50 quarts from the patch.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Jane Malcolm, who died Saturday were held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Malcolm's son, Early Malcolm, on Helen street.

During the summer the rows of seats fastened to the floor in the rear of the high school gymnasium will be moved forward so that the foyer may be enlarged, Superintendent Roy V. Ellise said Friday.

The engagement of Miss Ann Beck and Robert H. Mow was announced informally to friends Tuesday night during the intermission of the board of aeronautics dance. The date of the wedding has not been set.

The Diamond Tavern burned to the ground early Saturday morning. The fire consumed the entire frame structure and the building's equipment, leaving only charred metal, such as iron bedsteads, tanks and a stove.

Six young people will be graduates from St. Francis Xavier Parochial School in exercises Sunday night, May 20. They are: Henry Layton, jr., Thomas Marshall, Paul Leible, Joan Pixley, Anne Jameson and Margaret Ann Tyson. At the same service the following will receive their first Holy Communion: Glenn Matthews, Wendall Hall, Patrick Schaefer, Rudolph York, Harold Sullivan, Willine Sullivan, Maxine Hahn, Lillian Rennier, Margaret Schaefer, Barbara Clinton, and Monica Sue Rankin.

Looking for a real bargain in an airplane? Plenty of people are and they're finding them at Harvey Parks Airport, where the government is selling surplus aircraft. Some of the planes are priced at figures amounting to about 10 cents on the dollar of the original cost. And that's a bargain in anybody's language.

War's influence is seen in the 1945 graduating class of Sikeston High School, the list includes 46 girls and only 16 boys, two of whom are already in the United States Army. Commencement exercises for the class will be held on May 21 at the high school gymnasium with Harry Blanton of St. Louis, United States District Attorney and former Sikeston resident as principal speaker.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits. (Psalm 103:2)

PRAYER: O God, to the end that we may make the most worthy use of all Thy bounties, we would love Thee with all our heart and soul and strength and mind. Help us by the strength Thou dost grant us through Christ our Lord. Amen.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter from a teen-ager named Billy who complained that his mother drove him nuts with her back seat driving.

I am a mother of three teen-agers and would like to register the identical complaint. Since my children learned to drive I haven't had a minute's peace behind the wheel.

The other day my son and two of his friends were walking home from school. I saw them and asked if they wanted a ride. The minute they got in the car my son started to criticize my driving. I ignored the first few digs, and then he said, "Ma, I think you need new glasses. You almost clipped that car when you passed it."

I answered, "I was driving when you were in diapers." He didn't say anything then but when we got home he yelled for half an hour about how I had insulted him in front of his friends. He didn't feel that he had insulted me with his crack about my needing new glasses.

I hope you will give parents a break and print this letter, Ann. Several of my friends are having the same problem with their highschoolers. Thank you. -- ON THE DEFENSIVE

Dear On: It's strange that most children think their parents know everything until they get to be about 12 years old. Then, suddenly, their parents don't know anything. This phase usually lasts six or seven years.

At about age 20, children begin to have a somewhat improved opinion of their parents. By the time children marry and have youngsters of their own they strongly suspect that perhaps their parents aren't so dumb after all.

Dear Readers: Well, I've done it again. This time, I not only alienated a whole industry but I've tromped on the toes of my ever-lovin' brother-in-law, a Nebraska jeweler, out of Omaha. He writes:

Dear Ann Landers: What do you mean telling that 22-year-old boy whose girl friend wasn't sure she wanted to be engaged, to "take the ring back to the jeweler for a refund."

A 22-year-old boy is old enough to know what he is doing. A reliable jeweler will stand back of his merchandise and give the customer a refund or exchange if the goods are faulty, but no jeweler in his right mind would sell an engagement ring with the provision that the buyer can bring it back for a refund if the romance doesn't go well.

Would you advise a woman to return a gown to a shop if she became ill and was unable to attend the party? Could you get a real estate company to refund option money if the buyer changed his mind?

I am protesting against your advice in behalf of approximately 25,000 fellow retail jewelers in this country who are probably as unhappy with your advice as I am. I hope you will print this letter and not discriminate against me on the grounds that I am a relative, because I am a daily reader as well - YOUR BROTHER-IN-LAW DAVE B

Dear Dave: Twenty - five thousand apologies to you and all the other retail jewelers. I should have told the young man that: (1) He should not have "surprised" a high school girl with an engagement ring and (2) He should hang on to the ring until he meets a girl who is at least as eager to accept the ring as he is to give it to her. Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

CHARLES BRYAN HARRIS

Charles Harris Added To FBI Most Wanted

CHARLES BRYAN HARRIS, also known as: Black Charlie Harris, Charles "Blackie" Harris, Charley Harris.

FUGITIVE

UNLAWFUL FLIGHT TO AVOID PROSECUTION - MURDER.

Charles Bryan Harris, alleged double-murderer and reputed member of the "Old Shelton Gang" of Southern Illinois, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." He has reportedly vowed to shoot it out with any law enforcement officer attempting to apprehend him and has been known to be in possession of a valise full of handguns.

Harris, known as a veteran and vicious criminal, is currently being sought by the FBI for unlawfully fleeing the State of Illinois to avoid prosecution for the crime of murder. A Federal warrant for his arrest was issued at East St. Louis, Illinois, on September 18, 1964.

On August 16, 1964, in Fairfield, Illinois, Harris allegedly shot and killed a former girl friend and a man who had previously testified against him in a murder trial. Their bodies, with bullet holes through their heads, were recovered from a burned-out building which was reportedly set afire by Harris with the aid of an accelerant.

Harris' long record of criminal activity began in 1927 when he was given a ten-year sentence in a Federal penitentiary for counterfeiting, after being arrested in Detroit, Michigan. In 1948, he was convicted in East St. Louis, Illinois, of carrying a concealed weapon, after being apprehended in possession of a .38 caliber pistol.

He is widely known to Southern Illinois law enforcement officers as an alleged gunman for the "Old Shelton Gang," an infamous group of desperate criminals that ran amuck in Southern Illinois on a crime rampage some three decades ago. Harris has a reputation of having allegedly murdered several people and, as late as July, 1963, was acquitted of a murder charge in Wayne County, Illinois.

A white American, who was born on July 26, 1896, in Fairfield, Illinois, he is 5' 7" tall, weighs approximately 148 pounds, has a medium build, and dark complexion. His hair is black, turning grey, and he has brown eyes. He has three gold-crowned upper front teeth and one lower right tooth is filled with gold. A 1 1/2" scar appears on the back of his left hand and a hernia operation scar appears on his left side. He has been employed in the past as a farmer and a carpenter and is reportedly in excellent health.

He is said to occasionally drink beer and whiskey to excess, enjoys patronizing low-class night clubs, has a reputation as a "ladies' man," usually wears glasses while driving and often dresses in a suit with shirt and necktie. He has reportedly employed disguises to evade arrest and gangland reprisals and has dressed as a woman and changed his voice tone accordingly.

Harris has allegedly threatened the lives of an Illinois State's Attorney and a Circuit Court Judge, and, while sometimes appearing polite and soft-spoken, he is known for having a violent and uncontrollable temper when angered. He is said to often carry a .45 caliber pistol in a cigar box under the front seat of his car, to sleep with a gun and possibly be in possession of a submachine gun. Harris is known as an excellent shot with all types of guns.

He should be considered armed and extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Charles Bryan Harris, you should immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

French Fried Liver

Liver, fried in deep hot lard, heated to 375° F. is one of the most delectable ways to serve this variety meat. Have the liver sliced thin, wash it with cold water and dry thoroughly.

Before frying, cut it with kitchen shears into strips about ¾-inch wide. Dip the pieces in seasoned flour for a light coating then fry in deep, hot lard.

Serve with what? French-fried onions are a perfect teammate.

"All you did was take an ordinary French roll and put it on the rack, eh?"

Today In U. S. History

Today is Tuesday, May 11, the 131st day of 1965. There are 234 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1858, Minnesota was admitted to the union as the 32nd state. The French were the first to settle the state and in its early history it also came under the rule of Spain and England.

On this date

In 1647, Peter Stuyvesant became governor of New Amsterdam, now New York.

In 1867, the Treaty of London was signed, giving Luxembourg the status of perpetual neutrality.

In 1942, Nazi armies opened their drive in the Crimea.

In 1943, Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived in Washington for a conference with President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1944, Allied forces launched their spring offensive in Italy.

Five years ago — The longest passenger ship in the world, the France, was launched at St. Nazaire.

One year ago — President Johnson promised continuing aid for Latin America until a hemisphere of free nations could be realized.

Armed Forces

AMARILLO, Tex. -- Airman Third Class James W. Gentry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Gentry of Bertrand, Mo., has been graduated from the technical training course for U. S. Air Force fuel specialists at Amarillo AFB, Tex.

Airman Gentry, trained to fuel aircraft and to operate flight line storage tanks and pumping systems, is being assigned to a Strategic Air Command (SAC) unit at Dyess AFB, Tex. His wing supports the Sac mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman is a graduate of Charleston (Mo.) High School.

FORT HOOD, TEX. (AHTNC) --Army PFC James White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie White, New Madrid, Mo., is participating in Exercise SILVER HAND, a major joint field training exercise conducted by the U. S. Strike Command at Fort Hood, Tex., May 1-15.

White is taking part in various tactical maneuvers designed to develop techniques to insure that Army and Air Force units can deal decisively as a team with any type of emergency.

A communications specialist in the 11th Medical Company stationed at Fort Hood, he entered the Army in November 1963 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 24-year-old soldier was graduated in 1960 from O'Bannon High School in New Madrid.

Before entering the Army, White was employed by the Voice of Music Corp., Benton Harbor.

courses in basic education reading, writing and simple arithmetic and basic or exploratory vocational experiences to determine their vocational aptitudes. They will then be given further training in occupations for which there is employment potential. Most of the training will be conducted in the Sikeston community. The trainees will be selected by the Missouri Division of Employment Security and all training will be under the administration and supervision of the Sikeston Public Schools.

Under the Manpower Development and Training Act, the purpose of which is to train the unemployed for jobs, the trainees are given a subsistence allowance during the period of training. According to school officials, not only will a training opportunity be provided for many of the unemployed in the area, but the program will bring a considerable amount of money into Southeast Missouri which will increase business and provide many new jobs.

An advisory committee of representative businessmen and professional men in various Southeast Missouri communities has been set up to advise in the planning and operation of the program. Those asked to serve on this committee are: Art Wallhausen, Jr., Charleston; C. L. Blanton, III and E. C. Matthews, Jr., Sikeston; Stephen Limbaugh, Cape Girardeau; Robert C. Hyde and Charles Atkins, Poplar Bluff; Sam Hunter, Jr., New Madrid; Ralph Hawkins, Portageville; Robert Coleman, Caruthersville; Jack Stapleton, Jr. and John McClain, Kennett; and Herbert Thrower and George Sisler, Dexter.

All expenses of this training program are paid from federal funds and no local money or tax funds are used. According to the Board of Education the training will probably begin about the middle of or the latter part of June.

Gen. Changes Mind About Resigning

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The head of the civilian-military junta said today he will accept the resignation of Brig. Gen. Wessin y Wessin, archfoe of the rebels, if it is offered.

Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, president of the junta, said in an interview he knew nothing of Wessin's resignation, reported Monday by the U.S. Embassy as a peace overture to the rebels. Later the embassy said Wessin had reconsidered.

"The question of Gen. Wessin's resignation is a matter between Gen. Imbert and Gen. Wessin," a U.S. Embassy official said in a statement.

"We did understand from official sources that Gen. Wessin was going to resign at 4 p.m. Monday. We now understand that he is reconsidering his decision," the statement said.

The United States had pressed for Wessin's retirement as a peace gesture toward the rebels, whose forces he fought with planes and tanks before the arrival of U.S. troops. Many Dominicans held him responsible for the air bombardments of Santo Domingo that took more than 1,000 lives.

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, proclaimed provisional president by the rebels, has been demanding that Wessin leave the country. The general commands the San Isidro training base 20 miles from Santo Domingo, one of the country's key military posts, and was a leader of the military revolt that overthrew President Juan Bosch in 1963.

U.S. sources said Wessin sent a letter Sunday to U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. in which he expressed his willingness to resign from the army for the good of the country. The letter was written after he met with Bennett and Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of the 21,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers in the Dominican Republic.

There was no explanation for the general's change of heart.

Reliable sources said the U.S. Embassy and representatives of the Organization of American States were trying to arrange a meeting between junta chief Imbert and rebel leader Caamano, but that Caamano so far had refused.

Caamano met with the papal nuncio, Msgr. Emanuele Clarizio, Monday. The nuncio, who represents Pope Paul VI in the Dominican Republic, reportedly carried a message from the junta. Results of the meeting were not disclosed.

In another peace gesture, Imbert on Sunday dismissed eight officers considered offensive to the rebels. Caamano's comment on the move was: "They have killed the flies and left the beetles."

At a new conference Monday he again denied charges that his movement was controlled by Communists.

"I am completely sure that a dictatorship of the left is infinitely worse than one of the right," he said.

U.S. forces reinforced their encirclement of the rebel-held area of Santo Domingo with 105mm howitzers, six smaller cannon and an additional 15 M48 tanks. A U.S. military spokesman said the artillery was "tuned on rebel targets."

A pair of mortar shells, apparently fired from the rebel sector, landed harmlessly about 100 yards from Palmer's headquarters.

The rebels showed no inclination to give up and began organizing daily life in their sector of the city. They control a maze of crowded apartment houses and business buildings in southeast Santo Domingo, called Ciudad Nueva.

Rebel soldiers directed traffic and rebel officials reopened two government offices that normally issue auto registration plates and identification cards. Ciudad Nueva residents began burning rubbish in front of their homes. There is no organized trash collection.

In Washington, the five-nation peace committee of the Organization of American States ignored a rebel ultimatum suspending peace negotiations.

The rebels, who seek to restore ex-President Bosch to office, had demanded a seat on the OAS.

"Nobody suspends negotiations for peace, nor wants to do so," said Ricardo M. Colombo, Argentina's OAS ambassador and chairman of the peace group. He said he would return to Santo Domingo today.

The United States won a victory at the OAS Council session Monday night when it pushed through a resolution designating the five-nation peace committee as the controlling authority for an inter-American military force for the Dominican Republic. The force is yet to be established.

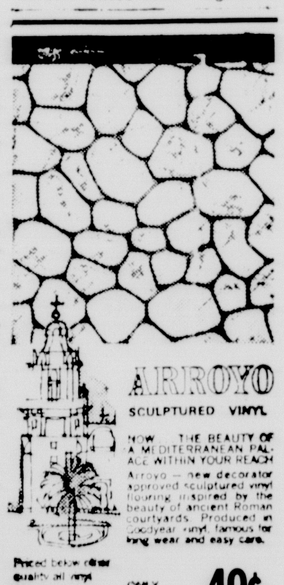

The resolution was adopted 14-3, with Mexico, Uruguay and Chile voting against it. Ecuador, Venezuela and Peru abstained.

At the United Nations, the U.N. Security Council appeared resigned to the prospect of winding up its debate on the Dominican crisis without taking any decisive action.

Jordan and Uruguay made last-minute efforts to introduce some kind of resolution that would continue U.N. responsibility in the matter. Even if adopted, it would be largely a face-saving gesture.

Cooking by Simmering

Certain cuts of meat are best when cooked by simmering in water. These include corned beef (brisket) and tongue and are cooked in water to cover. It's interesting to add extra special flavor during the cooking. For example, 1 lemon, sliced, 2 onions, sliced, 6 whole cloves, 6 whole peppers and a stick of cinnamon bark added to pickled tongue while it cooks enhances the flavor of this cut.

Susie Gardner Chosen "Girl of the Year"

In the Mother-Daughter annual banquet last night at the Holiday Inn, Mrs. Danny (Susie) Gardner, was honored as "Girl of the Year" of the Junior Woman's Club. Fifty persons were in attendance. The presentation was made by Mrs. M. E. Montgomery of the Sikeston Woman's Club.

Officers installed last night were as follows: Mrs. Linda Carmody, president; Mrs. Judy Throgmorton, vice-president; Mrs. Ann Elliott, secretary; Mrs. Ruth Ann Taylor, corresponding secretary, and Miss Linda Freeman, treasurer.

Miss Kathryn Clark was presented with an engraved silver tray, for her many contributions as pianist in the recent Follies. Two members were presented with a gift certificate for their efforts in the 1965 Red Stocking Follies and were, Mrs. Addie Mae Jones, for the most tickets sold, and to Mrs. Shirley Dyer, for the most advertising sold.

Light Docket In Magistrate

A light docket was brought before Judge M. E. Montgomery in this morning's session of Magistrate Court.

Samuel Massa, St. Louis, Mo., pleaded not guilty to the charge of non-support and case was dismissed. He proved to the court that he had been unable to pay the required sum to his family due to poor health.

Clifton Crowden, Bell City, Mo., charged with having no operators license, had case continued until next week.

J. D. Moore, 124 Cardinal St., Sikeston, charged with writing bad checks, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5. and costs.

Leonard Todd, Union City, Tenn., charged with improper registration, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25. and costs.

Marion Williams, Felker St., Sikeston, charged with non-support, had case continued until next week.

William Hutchinson, 912 Stoddard St., Dexter, Mo., pleaded not guilty to the charge of non-support and had case continued until next week's session of Magistrate Court.

James King, 216 Smith St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and minor having possession of liquor. On the driving charge he was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail and was fined $25. and costs and license was revoked for six months. On the possession charge he was fined $50 and costs.

Rotarians

President-elect Lucien Stoner was host to the Rotary members at a steak fry at his cabin on Lake Wappapello, Monday night. Chief cooks for the outing were, Ray Leible, Fred Koch, Gene Dement, and assisted by the salad chef Chip Schmerbauch and President Allan Hubbard, as onion cutter. Guests were, W. D. Carney, Dave Markel, Fred Bender, Max Teague and Sharon Pharris. It was Aubrey Shain's last meeting as he will be transferred to Springfield.

The next meeting will be on May 17 at the Holiday Inn, with Thatcher Scism as the program chairman. One member was fortunate in landing a two-pound bass on the outing.

Three City Arrests

It is again shown that getting intoxicated isn't going to pay, for the Sikeston Police Department made three arrests in the last 24 hours, all for being under the influence of intoxicating liqour in public.

James Lackey, 638 Lynn St., Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Reed Daugherty, 212 Trotter, Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Paul Glancy, Rt. 2, Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Recipe For A Husband

LONDON AP -- For Marilyn Potts, the recipe for getting a husband is roast lamb, potatoes and peas.

Marilyn, who is 18, met Paul Reed, 25. Two months ago they decided to wed.

Marilyn's mother objected. She said her daughter was too young, and furthermore she could cook only eggs and bacon.

Paul's mother suggested that Marilyn cook her a Sunday dinner.

Marilyn agreed and appealed to the court for permission to mary Paul if she passed the cooking test.

In England, a person under 21 can marry without parental permission only if a court approves.

Marilyn served roast lamb, peas and potatoes Sunday.

"The meal was delicious," said Paul's mother. "She certainly proved to me that she could cook and look after my son."

Monday the court gave Marilyn permission to wed Paul.

Automobile driving over the past 24 hours showed a great improvement over the 14-county area in Troop E, in that there were but three accidents, with two injuries.

At 6:50 p.m. Monday five miles southwest of Dexter, a 1957 Ford driven by Gary Beacham, 19, Dexter, and a 1965 Ford, driven by Leonard Cooper, 56 met near a hillcrest, with each of the cars receiving damage to their left fronts. Neither driver was injured.

In an accident on Highway 61, three miles south of Jackson, Monday at 7:30 p.m. Gerald Stevens, 25, Burfordville, attempted to pass a 1963 Ford driven by Mary Ann Kuehn, 27, route three, Jackson. The Kuehn car attempted to make a left turn as the Stevens car attempted to pass, when he hit a culvert and overturned. Both drivers were taken to the McDonald Clinic in Jackson with bruises and lacerations.

Civil Defense Pays Sikeston

Sikeston, it was announced by Mr. John Vaughn, City Clerk for the City of Sikeston, has received the final payment of $1,266 from the Civil Defense due to Sikeston being declared a Natural Disaster area in March, 1964.

Three In City Court

In a short session of City Court held by Judge E. R. Schrader this morning, three cases were brought before him, all of which were on the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

James Lackey, 638 Lynn St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public and was fined $6 and costs.

Reed Daugherty, 121 Trotter St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor and was fined $6 and costs.

Paul Glancy, Rt. 2, Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public and was fined $6 and costs.

Sikes To Admin. Position In Manpower Development And Training Act Program

Wm. F. "Bill" Sikes of Sikeston, prominent farmer and businessman, has been employed by the Board of Education to an administrative position in a Manpower Development and Training Act Program, Board President L. M. Standley said today.

Sikes is a graduate of the University of Missouri. He is a former President of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a past director of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in other agricultural and economic organizations. He was approved by the Missouri State Department of Education for this position partially because of his extensive experience in dealing with farmers and agricultural workers in the area. Many of the trainees will come from the group of former agricultural workers, displaced by mechanization in farming.

The particular project in which Mr. Sikes will be working will involve training in various vocations for about 400, extremely low income, youth and adults coming from 20 Southeast Missouri counties. Approximately

W. F. (Bill) Sikes

200 of the trainees will be adult heads of families and about 100 will be under educated youth or possibly school drop outs. Most, if not all of the trainees, are presently unemployed or under employed and this training will include

Bus Bill Killed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)— A bill to let public and parochial school students ride public school buses was killed for the second time Monday.

The controversial issue has generated more heat than any other bill this session. Earlier a similar measure died in the Senate Education Committee.

And Monday the House Education Committee voted it down on a reported 30-10 vote.

During its stormy course the issue drew thousands of partisans to the Capitol for hearings. Proponents pushed it as a safety measure. Opponents said it violated the traditional separation of church and state.

Two other major proposals moved forward.

The Senate advanced a broad public accommodations bill to bar racial or religious discrimination in public places.

The House put into position for passage a constitutional change to permit bond issues to be passed by a 60 per cent majority instead of the two-thirds now required.

Both houses got into long arguments over the bills.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis tried to make the public accommodations bill cover all barber and beauty shops, instead of those in hotels or stores only. He got the job done once, then the Senate backed up and defeated his amendment.

Opponents of McNeal's plan said they feared it would jeopardize the bill's chances in the House.

The House batted down 10 amendments to the bond proposal before approving it after more than three hours of argument.

Opposition to the 60 per cent figure was led by Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-St. Louis County. He first proposed a requirement that bond issues be voted by 60 per cent of the qualified voters. Few elections draw that many to the polls.

The House also defeated efforts to set the required majority at 57, 61, 63 and 65 per cent and to limit voting to property owners.

As the week's work started, Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, Senate majority leader, announced the Senate would hold its first all day session Wednesday in an attempt to cut down the number of pending bills.

The House has been meeting both morning and afternoon for several weeks.

Judges Refuse To Set Reapportionment Deadline

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A panel of three federal judges has refused to put a July 15 deadline on reapportionment of the Missouri House and Senate.

The panel ruled in December that present apportionment was unconstitutional, but the judges withheld action to give the Legislature time to act.

A motion was filed April 6 asking the court for a supplementary order setting a July 15 deadline for action. It was argued that the action was needed to give adequate time for candidates in the 1966 elections.

The current legislative session ends June 30.

In denying the motion Monday, the panel said:

"The court will consider the situation as it exists after June 30 to determine whether steps have been taken to establish a constitutionally acceptable apportionment scheme."

The panel also denied a part of the motion which asked the court to determine whether it was the duty of election commissioners in Jackson and St. Louis counties to apportion districts within their counties.

The suit to force reapportionment was filed by four Kansas City residents, and is being considered along with a similar suit filed by three St. Louis citizens.

Members of the panel are Floyd R. Gibson and William H. Becker of the U.S. District Court, and Albert A. Ridge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hope To Have New Districts Set In 2 Weeks

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House Reapportionment Committee Monday night prepared for the monumental task of dividing Missouri into 168 new representative districts.

Members were grouped in four subcommittees, each responsible for redistricting part of the state on the "one man-one vote" basis laid down by the federal courts.

Rep. Norbert Jasper, D-Franklin County, committee chairman said the subgroups will not aim at a set variance between the populations of each district, but will try instead to make the districts "as equal as possible." The courts, he said, have frowned on the use of a maximum variance.

Urban representation would almost double under the plan the subcommittees are following. The group assigned to realign St. Louis City and County, for example, is working with 56 districts compared with the present 29.

Members agreed they must come up with a plan within two weeks, Jasper said. Last week, the House advanced a proposed constitutional amendment increasing its size by five, to 168.

The committee was warned Monday by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, Senate majority leader, that voters might reject the constitutional amendment if they are unhappy with the new districts. He also said reapportionment was taking precious time away from other important legislation.

Waters urged the committee to accept a Senate plan, backed by the governor, to let a bipartisan commission handle the task instead.

Jasper said, however, he thought the committee's plan could stand as a separate law even if the amendment is rejected.

Here are the subcommittees and their areas:

The First, Second and Third Congressional districts — St. Louis City and County—will be realigned by Reps. James P. Troupe, Harry C. Raiffie, Buddy Kay, Frank Kostron and Patrick J. Hickey, Democrats, and Alfred A. Speer, Republican.

The Fourth and Fifth districts —Kansas City, Jackson County and seven other counties—to be remapped by Reps. Frank C. Mazzuca, Leon M. Jordan and Homer M. Clements, Democrats and George Duensing Jr., Republican. The area will comprise 31 House districts.

The Sixth and Ninth Congressional districts — Including most counties north of the Missouri River— will be divided by Democratic Reps. Jasper, Richard J. DeCoster, Luna Butler and James W. Williams into 31 House districts.

The Seventh, Eighth and Tenth Congressional districts — Most of the state south of the Missouri — will be redrawn by Reps. Bill Crigler, Raymond Roberts and James C. Skaggs, Democrats and Luther Arnold, Martin Degenhardt and Guss C. Salley, Republicans. It will number 50 House districts.

Committee members originally were picked by the House speaker on the basis of two from each congressional district. They are receiving technical aid from four political scientists from the University of Missouri — David Leuthold, Carlyle Dewey, Steve Brown and Jerry Nunn.

Viet Cong Executes Mighty Attack, Kill 5

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- The Viet Cong occupied a town of 15,000 persons 74 miles north of Saigon for seven hours today, killing 5 American military advisers and wounding 11 others in one of the heaviest onslaughts of the Vietnamese war.

In another operation, a U. S. Marine was killed and six were wounded when a company of leathernecks shot their way into a complex of Communist-controlled villages near the Da Nang ir Base.

The casualties raised the total of U. S. combat dead in Viet Nam to 372 since December 1961.

The heaviest American casualties were suffered in Song Be, a provincial capital near the Cambodian border. Government forces reoccupied the town under cover of a heavy air attack by U. S. Air Force jets, but the Communists dug in along a river northeast of the town. A major battle appeared to be developing.

Communists groundfire hit one American propeller-driven fighter - bomber in the engine, forcing it to land. An Army helicopter picked up the pilot unhurt 15 minutes later.

"We're really pouring the air on them. We're giving them everything we can lay our hands on," a U. S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

The Vietnamese defenders were believed to have suffered heavy casualties in the attack, which was the first Red seizure of a provincial capital since last fall.

Song Be first came under heavy mortar attack at 1:55 a.m. The Communists followed up at 2:30 a.m. with an infantry assault in regimental strength on the town where about 30 U. S. advisers were stationed with a force of some 1,000 Vietnamese.

During the fighting helicopters were unable to land reinforcements because Red fire in the landing zones was too hot.

By daylight the guerrillas were well inside the town and engaged the defenders in house-to-house fighting.

One group of guerrillas fought their way into the mess hall of the U. S. Army advisory detachment, but all were killed in hand-to-hand fighting. A second group got into the hall and got away with a supply of rations.

The Communists seized the provincial administration building in Song Be and attacked a government post a half mile from town. The post held despite withering fire from Viet Cong cannon and mortars.

The Viet Cong captured five armored cars from defenders of the administration building and threw them into an attack on the Song Be airstrip a half mile away.

The Viet Cong began to leave the town about 9 a.m. and government troops began moving in. Red antiaircraft fire continued at noon troop-carrying helicopters were still unable to land in the area.

Several medical evacuation helicopters got through to pick up casualties. None was reported downed.

Viet Cong antiaircraft filled the sky with tracers.

"They had two batteries working us over pretty good," said Capt. Kenneth Blackwell of Newaygo, Mich., a B57 pilot.

Blackwell's swift, two-engine plane was hit in the tail and right wing.

The leader of the strike, Capt. Robert Woodruff of Pomona, Calif., also took hits on his jet.

Woodruff's navigator, Capt. Don Carruthers of Palo Alto, Calif., was grazed by flying glass when a bullet struck the jet's cockpit canopy. Physicians removed glass splinters from his arm.

The Americans have been expecting a major attack for months on Song Be. The town was created by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, who opened up Phuoc Long Province, a desolate area near Cambodia.

The attack followed three days of intensive Communist activity in the northern Mekong Delta. Two Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a battle Sunday and Monday in Hau Nghia Province, 50 miles south of Song Be.

The Marine casualties occurred in the leathernecks' first seize-and-hold operation since they landed in Viet Nam two months ago. They occupied the Le My village complex, a trouble spot for the Marines and government forces where another Marine was killed last Friday.

Usually only a Viet Cong platoon or less operates in the area, but the Communists can summon reinforcements quickly from the nearby hills.

A Marine company charged one of the central hamlets today and ran into sharp sniper fire. One Marine fell, shot through the heart. Marine fire teams then sprayed the Communist position with bullets. One woman was found killed and an old man fatally wounded.

Four of six Americans wounded were reported in serious condition.

Because of its position 8 miles west of the strategic Da Nang base, wresting Le My from the Viet Cong was considered a must.

TWO EMERGENCIES

Two persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

Eula Wagoner, Blodgett, lawnmower threw object up, cutting leg.

Kenneth Hatley, Sikeston, crushed hands between two trucks.

Honor Banquet Held Last Night

"A man's education is his cornerstone." That was what Dr. Bob G. Woods, Associate Professor of Education at the University of Missouri, said to close his address to the students and their parents at the Seventh Annual Honor Banquet.

There were 83 sophomores, juniors and seniors with their parents at the banquet. The students in attendance were the top 10 per cent of their respective classes.

The seniors and their parents received special recognition at the banquet and all of the students received a special certificate.

Mr. David Blanton, Toastmaster, introduced Dr. Woods who commented on how Sikeston and the community had changed since he was here in the early part of 1944.

He then went on to introduce his topic by saying that, "living today does not come easy and the uneducated is oftentimes destined to become a prisoner of poverty for the rest of his life."

He then gave a warning to the students. "I hope that you students realize that there is today an explosion of knowledge taking place. There is a patent being made every ten seconds and there is more knowledge turned up in one day, in these times, than was known in the post-war years. This is going to affect your young peoples lives tremendously. You will have jobs that are presently unknown to mankind. This makes it tough for the educators for they are faced with the problem of knowing what to teach that will prepare you for the future living that will have to be made."

"Students, you will have to continue your education to the highest possible point of your capacity in order to stay free individuals. You are not presently equipped to go out on your own. You merely have the tools to prepare. Utilization is entirely up to you and you alone."

"For the future you will have to achieve a higher level of learning. Upgrade your vocational competence to the highest level possible." As an example of this he explained that today's farmer must be a business man, among other various things. In other words he meant that a farmer must have a wide knowledge and be well informed.

He then proceeded to tell the students that people who prepared for their vocation years ago, "have to keep pace with the rapid changes being made in knowledge."

"There are many specialties and the demand for technicians is going to increase even more sharply in the near future. Automation is eliminating jobs for people faster than the people can prepare for them." As an example he pointed out that many of the production lines of today do not have people. He stated that they are being replaced by multi-purpose machines.

He again warned the students that it is, "possible for a person to earn a degree today and still be unemployed. Do not take the easy road. It may be easier for you today, but tomorrow it will be the most difficult. When you make the selection of your appropriate vocation, do not be lax. This laxness is very malignant and if you defelep this in school, it will burden you always."

He then said, "A person today has to be very persistent in his vocation. It requires self-study, reading and more study. People, oftentimes, that are unemployed today will not return for more education. For the welfare of yourself and your nation you had better develop a sincere curiosity and keep an open mind toward more education. To have a full life, a sound general education is essential in today's fast pace."

In summarizing his speech to the students he pointed out five things that he wanted left impressed on their minds.

1. Obtain the highest level possible in your education.
2. Possession of degree does not insure success.
3. Develop an intellectual curiosity.
4. Realize the importance of

Susie Gardner Chosen "Girl of the Year"

In the Mother-Daughter annual banquet last night at the Holiday Inn, Mrs. Danny (Susie) Gardner, was honored as "Girl of the Year" of the Junior Woman's Club. Fifty persons were in attendance. The presentation was made by Mrs. M. E. Montgomery of the Sikeston Woman's Club.

Officers installed last night were as follows: Mrs. Linda Carmody, president; Mrs. Judy Throgmorton, vice-president; Mrs. Ann Elliott, secretary; Mrs. Ruth Ann Taylor, corresponding secretary, and Miss Linda Freeman, treasurer.

Miss Kathryn Clark was presented with an engraved silver tray, for her many contributions as pianist in the recent Follies. Two members were presented with a gift certificate for their efforts in the 1965 Red Stocking Follies and were, Mrs. Addie Mae Jones, for the most tickets sold, and to Mrs. Shirley Dyer, for the most advertising sold.

Light Docket In Magistrate

A light docket was brought before Judge M. E. Montgomery in this morning's session of Magistrate Court.

Samuel Massa, St. Louis, Mo., pleaded not guilty to the charge of non-support and case was dismissed. He proved to the court that he had been unable to pay the required sum to his family due to poor health.

Clifton Crowden, Bell City, Mo., charged with having no operators license, had case continued until next week.

J. D. Moore, 124 Cardinal St., Sikeston, charged with writing bad checks, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5. and costs.

Leonard Todd, Union City, Tenn., charged with improper registration, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25. and costs.

Marion Williams, Felker St., Sikeston, charged with non-support, had case continued until next week.

William Hutchinson, 912 Stoddard St., Dexter, Mo., pleaded not guilty to the charge of non-support and had case continued until next week's session of Magistrate Court.

James King, 216 Smith St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and minor having possession of liquor. On the driving charge he was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail and was fined $25. and costs and license was revoked for six months. On the possession charge he was fined $50 and costs.

Rotarians

President-elect Lucien Stoner was host to the Rotary members at a steak fry at his cabin on Lake Wappapello, Monday night. Chief cooks for the outing were, Ray Leible, Fred Koch, Gene Dement, and assisted by the salad chef Chip Schmerbauch and President Allan Hubbard, as onion cutter. Guests were, W. D. Carney, Dave Markel, Fred Bender, Max Teague and Sharon Pharris. It was Aubrey Shain's last meeting as he will be transferred to Springfield.

The next meeting will be on May 17 at the Holiday Inn, with Thatcher Scism as the program chairman. One member was fortunate in landing a two-pound bass on the outing.

Three City Arrests

It is again shown that getting intoxicated isn't going to pay, for the Sikeston Police Department made three arrests in the last 24 hours, all for being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

James Lackey, 638 Lynn St., Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Reed Daugherty, 212 Trotter, Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Paul Glancy, Rt. 2, Sikeston, charged with being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

Recipe For A Husband

LONDON AP -- For Marilyn Potts, the recipe for getting a husband is roast lamb, potatoes and peas.

Marilyn, who is 18, met Paul Reed, 25. Two months ago they decided to wed.

Marilyn's mother objected. She said her daughter was too young, and furthermore she could cook only eggs and bacon.

Paul's mother suggested that Marilyn cook her a Sunday dinner.

Marilyn agreed and appealed to the court for permission to mary Paul if she passed the cooking test.

In England, a person under 21 can marry without parental permission only if a court approves.

Marilyn served roast lamb, peas and potatoes Sunday.

"The meal was delicious," said Paul's mother. "She certainly proved to me that she could cook and look after my son."

Monday the court gave Marilyn permission to wed Paul.

Automobile driving over the past 24 hours showed a great improvement over the 14-county area in Troop E, in that there were but three accidents, with two injuries.

At 6:50 p.m. Monday five miles southwest of Dexter, a 1957 Ford driven by Gary Beacham, 19, Dexter, and a 1965 Ford, driven by Leonard Cooper, 56 met near a hillcrest, with each of the cars receiving damage to their left fronts. Neither driver was injured.

In an accident on Highway 61, three miles south of Jackson, Monday at 7:30 p.m. Gerald Stevens, 25, Burfordville, attempted to pass a 1963 Ford driven by Mary Ann Kuehn, 27, route three, Jackson. The Kuehn car attempted to make a left turn as the Stevens car attempted to pass, when he hit a culvert and overturned. Both drivers were taken to the McDonald Clinic in Jackson with bruises and lacerations.

Three In City Court

In a short session of City Court held by Judge E. R. Schrader this morning, three cases were brought before him, all of which were on the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public.

James Lackey, 638 Lynn St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public and was fined $6 and costs.

Reed Daugherty, 121 Trotter St., Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor and was fined $6 and costs.

Paul Glancy, Rt. 2, Sikeston, pleaded guilty to the charge of being under the influence of intoxicating liquor in public and was fined $6 and costs.

Sikes To Admin. Position In Manpower Development And Training Act Program

Wm. F. "Bill" Sikes of Sikeston, prominent farmer and businessman, has been employed by the Board of Education to an administrative position in a Manpower Development and Training Act Program, Board President L. M. Standley said today.

Sikes is a graduate of the University of Missouri. He is a former President of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a past director of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in other agricultural and economic organizations. He was approved by the Missouri State Department of Education for this position partially because of his extensive experience in dealing with farmers and agricultural workers in the area. Many of the trainees will come from the group of former agricultural workers, displaced by mechanization in farming.

The particular project in which Mr. Sikes will be working will involve training in various vocations for about 400, extremely low income, youth and adults coming from 20 Southeast Missouri counties. Approximately

W. F. (Bill) Sikes

200 of the trainees will be adult heads of families and about 100 will be under educated youth or possibly school drop outs. Most, if not all of the trainees, are presently unemployed or under employed and this training will include

Bus Bill Killed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)— A bill to let public and parochial school students ride public school buses was killed for the second time Monday.

The controversial issue has generated more heat than any other bill this session. Earlier a similar measure died in the Senate Education Committee.

And Monday the House Education Committee voted it down on a reported 30-10 vote.

During its stormy course the issue drew thousands of partisans to the Capitol for hearings. Proponents pushed it as a safety measure. Opponents said it violated the traditional separation of church and state.

Two other major proposals moved forward.

The Senate advanced a broad public accommodations bill to bar racial or religious discrimination in public places.

The House put into position for passage a constitutional change to permit bond issues to be passed by a 60 per cent majority instead of the two-thirds now required.

Both houses got into long arguments over the bills.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis tried to make the public accommodations bill cover all barber and beauty shops, instead of those in hotels or stores only. He got the job done once, then the Senate backed up and defeated his amendment.

Opponents of McNeal's plan said they feared it would jeopardize the bill's chances in the House.

The House batted down 10 amendments to the bond proposal before approving it after more than three hours of argument.

Opposition to the 60 per cent figure was led by Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-St. Louis County. He first proposed a requirement that bond issues be voted by 60 per cent of the qualified voters. Few elections draw that many to the polls.

The House also defeated efforts to set the required majority at 57, 61, 63 and 65 per cent and to limit voting to property owners.

As the week's work started, Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, Senate majority leader, announced the Senate would hold its first all day session Wednesday in an attempt to cut down the number of pending bills.

The House has been meeting both morning and afternoon for several weeks.

Judges Refuse To Set Reapportionment Deadline

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A panel of three federal judges has refused to put a July 15 deadline on reapportionment of the Missouri House and Senate.

The panel ruled in December that present apportionment was unconstitutional, but the judges withheld action to give the Legislature time to act.

A motion was filed April 6 asking the court for a supplementary order setting a July 15 deadline for action. It was argued that the action was needed to give adequate time for candidates in the 1966 elections.

The current legislative session ends June 30.

In denying the motion Monday, the panel said:

"The court will consider the situation as it exists after June 30 to determine whether steps have been taken to establish a constitutionally acceptable apportionment scheme."

The panel also denied a part of the motion which asked the court to determine whether it was the duty of election commissioners in Jackson and St. Louis counties to apportion districts within their counties.

The suit to force reapportionment was filed by four Kansas City residents, and is being considered along with a similar suit filed by three St. Louis citizens.

Members of the panel are Floyd R. Gibson and William H. Becker of the U.S. District Court, and Albert A. Ridge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hope To Have New Districts Set In 2 Weeks

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House Reapportionment Committee Monday night prepared for the monumental task of dividing Missouri into 168 new representative districts.

Members were grouped in four subcommittees, each responsible for redistricting part of the state on the "one man-one vote" basis laid down by the federal courts.

Rep. Norbert Jasper, D-Franklin County, committee chairman said the subgroups will not aim at a set variance between the populations of each district, but will try instead to make the districts "as equal as possible." The courts, he said, have frowned on the use of a maximum variance.

Urban representation would almost double under the plan the subcommittees are following. The group assigned to realign St. Louis City and County, for example, is working with 56 districts compared with the present 29.

Members agreed they must come up with a plan within two weeks, Jasper said. Last week, the House advanced a proposed constitutional amendment increasing its size by five, to 168.

The committee was warned Monday by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, Senate majority leader, that voters might reject the constitutional amendment if they are unhappy with the new districts. He also said reapportionment was taking precious time away from other important legislation.

Waters urged the committee to accept a Senate plan, backed by the governor, to let a bipartisan commission handle the task instead.

Jasper said, however, he thought the committee's plan could stand as a separate law even if the amendment is rejected.

Here are the subcommittees and their areas:

The First, Second and Third Congressional districts — St. Louis City and County—will be realigned by Reps. James P. Troupe, Harry C. Raiffie, Buddy Kay, Frank Kostron and Patrick J. Hickey, Democrats, and Alfred A. Speer, Republican.

The Fourth and Fifth districts —Kansas City, Jackson County and seven other counties—to be remapped by Reps. Frank C. Mazzuca, Leon M. Jordan and Homer M. Clements, Democrats and George Duensing Jr., Republican. The area will comprise 31 House districts.

The Sixth and Ninth Congressional districts — including most counties north of the Missouri River— will be divided by Democratic Reps. Jasper, Richard J. DeCoster, Luna Butler and James W. Williams into 31 House districts.

The Seventh, Eighth and Tenth Congressional districts — Most of the state south of the Missouri — will be redrawn by Reps. Bill Crigler, Raymond Roberts and James C. Skaggs, Democrats and Luther Arnold, Martin Degenhardt and Guss C. Salley, Republicans. It will number 50 House districts.

Committee members originally were picked by the House speaker on the basis of two from each congressional district. They are receiving technical aid from four political scientists from the University of Missouri — David Leuthold, Carlyle Dewey, Steve Brown and Jerry Nunn.

Viet Cong Executes Mighty Attack, Kill 5

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- The Viet Cong occupied a town of 15,000 persons 74 miles north of Saigon for seven hours today, killing 5 American military advisers and wounding 11 others in one of the heaviest onslaughts of the Vietnamese war.

In another operation, a U. S. Marine was killed and six were wounded when a company of leathernecks shot their way into a complex of Communist-controlled villages near the Da Nang ir Base.

The casualties raised the total of U. S. combat dead in Viet Nam to 372 since December 1961.

The heaviest American casualties were suffered in Song Be, a provincial capital near the Cambodian border. Government forces reoccupied the town under cover of a heavy air attack by U. S. Air Force jets, but the Communists dug in along a river northeast of the town. A major battle appeared to be developing.

Communists groundfire hit one American propeller-driven fighter - bomber in the engine, forcing it to land. An Army helicopter picked up the pilot unhurt 15 minutes later.

"We're really pouring the air on them. We're giving them everything we can lay our hands on," a U. S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

The Vietnamese defenders were believed to have suffered heavy casualties in the attack, which was the first Red seizure of a provincial capital since last fall.

Song Be first came under heavy mortar attack at 1:55 a.m. The Communists followed up at 2:30 a.m. with an infantry assault in regimental strength on the town where about 30 U. S. advisers were stationed with a force of some 1,000 Vietnamese.

During the fighting helicopters were unable to land reinforcements because Red fire in the landing zones was too hot.

By daylight the guerrillas were well inside the town and engaged the defenders in house-to-house fighting.

One group of guerrillas fought their way into the mess hall of the U. S. Army advisory detachment, but all were killed in hand-to-hand fighting. A second group got into the hall and got away with a supply of rations.

The Communists seized the provincial administration building in Song Be and attacked a government post a half mile from town. The post held despite withering fire from Viet Cong cannon and mortars.

The Viet Cong captured five armored cars from defenders of the administration building and threw them into an attack on the Song Be airstrip a half mile away.

The Viet Cong began to leave the town about 9 a.m. and government troops began moving in. Red antiaircraft fire continued at noon troop-carrying helicopters were still unable to land in the area.

Several medical evacuation helicopters got through to pick up casualties. None was reported downed.

Viet Cong antiaircraft filled the sky with tracers.

"They had two batteries working us over pretty good," said Capt. Kenneth Blackwell of Newaygo, Mich., a B57 pilot.

Blackwell's swift, two-engine plane was hit in the tail and right wing.

The leader of the strike, Capt. Robert Woodruff of Pomona, Calif., also took hits on his jet.

Woodruff's navigator, Capt. Don Carruthers of Palo Alto, Calif., was grazed by flying glass when a bullet struck the jet's cockpit canopy. Physicians removed glass splinters from his arm.

The Americans have been expecting a major attack for months on Song Be. The town was created by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, who opened up Phuoc Long Province, a desolate area near Cambodia.

The attack followed three days of intensive Communist activity in the northern Mekong Delta. Two Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a battle Sunday and Monday in Hau Nghia Province, 50 miles south of Song Be.

The Marine casualties occurred in the leathernecks' first seize-and-hold operation since they landed in Viet Nam two months ago. They occupied the Le My village complex, a trouble spot for the Marines and government forces where another Marine was killed last Friday.

Usually only a Viet Cong platoon or less operates in the area, but the Communists can summon reinforcements quickly from the nearby hills.

A Marine company charged one of the central hamlets today and ran into sharp sniper fire. One Marine fell, shot through the heart. Marine fire teams then sprayed the Communist position with bullets. One woman was found killed and an old man fatally wounded.

Four of six Americans wounded were reported in serious condition.

Because of its position 8 miles west of the strategic Da Nang base, wresting Le My from the Viet Cong was considered a must.

TWO EMERGENCIES

Two persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

Eula Wagoner, Blodgett, lawnmower threw object up, cutting leg.

Kenneth Hatley, Sikeston, crushed hands between two trucks.

Honor Banquet Held Last Night

"A man's education is his cornerstone." That was what Dr. Bob G. Woods, Associate Professor of Education at the University of Missouri, said to close his address to the students and their parents at the Seventh Annual Honor Banquet.

There were 83 sophomores, juniors and seniors with their parents at the banquet. The students in attendance were the top 10 per cent of their respective classes.

RIGHT TO WORK AND CIVIL RIGHTS

The American people are convinced that the Right to Work is right. They know that the Right to Work is a worker's right, a state right and an individual right. And, as a matter of fact, many feel that no civil right is more important than the civil right of free choice -- presently guaranteed in 19 states by Right to Work laws.

The demand by some political leaders to repeal Section 14(b) -- the section of The Taft-Hartley Act which allows states to enact Right To Work laws -- is strangely inconsistent with their avowed concern for the civil and human rights of all Americans.

Early in his State of the Union message, President Johnson declared that the nation is "dedicated to freedom from arbitrary power; not merely for all Americans, but for all." Moments later, he called for changes in the Taft-Hartley Act, including Section 14(b) -- changes that would mean a return to nationwide compulsory union membership!

Another paradox is Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz. He said, in a Detroit address in 1963 during a Michigan celebration of the 100th Anniversary of Emancipation Proclamation, "The large edifice of civil rights is dependent on equality of employment opportunity. . . if men are to be truly free in accord with the tenents of democracy, then they must be free to seek a livelihood without prejudice."

It is unfortunate that Secretary Wirtz seems to be speaking out for all men when in reality he appears to mean only some men. For as an outspoken opponent of the right to work he certainly is not including those who do not choose to unionize.

A really strange outlook on human rights is presented by Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Auto Workers. He said recently in Selma, "When you deny freedom to any person, you are destroying your own freedom." Perhaps we should remind Mr. Reuther of the fact that organized labor is today denying freedom to millions of individuals making up our "minority" groups. An excellent example of this is provided by three men in Evansville, Indiana, who face dismissal from their jobs because they contend that their religious beliefs (they are members of the Christadelphian faith) forbid them to join a union. Is Mr. Reuther concerned with the individual rights of these three men? Hardly!

Is there "equality of employment opportunity" for the man who seeks work but cannot obtain it because of his refusal to join an organization against his will? Is the non-union worker who applies for a job in a compulsory union atmosphere "free to seek a livelihood without prejudice?"

Regarding the Negro drive to obtain fair treatment in the job market, countless cases have emerged where Negro and other minority groups workers were denied admittance to a trade due to the exclusionary practices of many closed shop unions. Because of the compulsory union situation, these exclused minority group workers were thwarted in their pursuit of the basic American right to seek employment in one's chosen field.

Thus the civil and human rights of all American workers stand in real and/or potential danger due to the bane of compulsory unionism.

Speak out, for there is a war going on. The shame of it all is that we, who claim to be citizens of the United States of America, are losing and we don't have the time to speak up and fight for a victory that must be won.

What war is going on? Well, there is war in Santo Domingo, Viet Nam and there is always a crisis in Cuba. But none of these is the war that lies the closest to the soul of America right now. It sleeps right around you every night.

The stabbing victim whose last earthly vision is the face of a sick intern watching his first patient die. It is the little girl who will suffer all of her precious life because she turned out to be the target of merciless raptist.

In the crime series that appear on television, (M-Squad, Man From U.N.C.L.E., G-Men, etc.) they always manage to come up with their criminals.

In real life, the truth is that the police officer catches a criminal only 25 times out of a hundred.

The writers of the real life script have put flesh and blood policemen which no stalwart of Central Casting will ever have to endure.

NON-SUPPORTED POLICE

It is expected by the police officer that he will be assaulted in the line of duty. But, this is not the largest burden that is carried by him in his tireless, thankless, but most of all, dangerous rounds. Worse than any of the things mentioned, the policeman learns early that he is the victim of non-support.

Witnesses will serenely watch murder, rape, break-ins, the worst things possible that can be realized by a human and his thinking facilities. They will watch thugs set up to beat the hell out of a policeman and won't even take the time to call the authorities.

What we need here in America is a cure against this inexcusable failure to down the most fearless enemy that is facing us. Even daring us to do anything about it.

Right here in the city of Sikeston people will permit fights, stabblings, embezzlement and won't even report them to the authorities. There have been some cases that it has been impossible for the police to catch the criminal for they can't get any information from people they know were on the scene. What people don't seem to realize is that next time it might be themselves that gets mugged, stabbed, or cheated out of his earnings. Perhaps then a person would appreciate some information given concerning him and the person who mugged him.

Beyond all this however, a policeman must also learn early that he will have to do his job over and over endlessly, for the thugs, swindlers, robbers, etc., will probably be out again to what seems to come the most natural for them. In the United States about 80 per cent of the time the crimes that are committeed are by repeaters.

This means that the hoodlum, the cop fighters, the sex offenders, the career burglars, the stick-up artist is a four-to-one bet to be graduated of our system of law.

To the policeman this means that he is to do his job again and again. To society it means that $3.2 billion is wasted out of the $4. billion spent annually against crimes.

BENEFITS OF COMPANY ADVERTISING

The trade center which depends entirely on agriculture has practically vanished.

Even in the more rural areas, industry helps to supplement community economy. Problems which did not exist in the old country town arise when a farm community becomes a part-time manufacturing community.

Problems are largely a matter of communication. Larger industries have long recognized the need to establish lines of communications between the company and local citizens, employees, and community leaders.

In smaller communities, industry officials are finding that the community newspaper may do the whole job better than any combination of media. Certainly the local newspaper is less expensive than the variety of publications sometimes used to reach all levels of the local citizenry. The local paper is carefully read by company employees, community leaders, and the general public. Communications from industry concerning labor problems, policies, plans, and current activities are carried in both news and advertising sections.

Any newspaper is glad to carry bonafide general news and feature stories about local industries. In most small communities more such news would be used if it were made available to industry.

Similarly, advertising which is concerned with the promotion of company interests can, and does, result in numerous benefits in maintaining better community and employee relations.

The Missouri Highway Patrol reports that 184 out-of-state people were killed in Missouri traffic accidents last year. They included residents of 30 states and one person from Ontario, Canada.

All of the eight states that border Missouri had residents lose their lives in the "show-me-state." Illinois had the most people killed of all the states, 34. Next was Arkansas with 28; Kansas, 25; Oklahoma, 9; Iowa, 8; Tennessee, 5; Kentucky, 3; and Nebraska had two of its citizens meet death on Missouri highways.

There were six other states with five or more residents killed on Missouri roadways in 1964. They include: California, 11; Minnesota, 10; Wisconsin and Michigan each with seven; and both Texas and Indiana had five of their citizens listed as traffic fatalities in Missouri.

Also included in the number of out-of-state people killed in Missouri traffic were those from as far south as Florida, from the northeast State of Vermont, from as far west as Washington and as already mentioned, from as far north as Canada.

The youngest out - of - state resident to be listed as a Missouri traffic fatality last year was an eight week old girl from the State of Kansas. The oldest known non-Missourian killed was a 76 year old man from California.

"Many out-of-state people killed on Missouri roadways are on vacation trips or just passing through," declared Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol. "They are not always familiar with the area and often make sudden turns and stops on our streets and highways. Missouri motorists should show extra courtesy to the visiting travelers. At the same time, Missourians must drive with extra caution when motoring in other states."

DOING IT THE HARD WAY

A man came to the evangelist Sam Jones and said, "Mr. Jones, I know only one verse of Scripture, and I know that one is true: 'The way of the transgressor is hard.'" Whoever that man was, he had by bitter experience discovered an essential truth: this is God's universe. He makes the rules for all who live, and when we go against Him we must take the troublesome consequesces.

Two ways open before us: God's way and our way. We are free to go our own way, but if we do we must accept the responsibility for and the consequences for such action. It is written in the Book, and it is written in human experience: "The way of the transgressor is hard."

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel burdened. Sin has a way of accumulating weight until every step along our self-chosen path is a wearisome strain. The cynic may scoff at sin and say, "It's all right if you can get away with it." But the truth is that no one ever "got away with" evil because we can never get away from ourselves.

Remember Hawthorne's book, "The Scarlet Letter"? Hester was condemned to wear the scarlet letter "A" which stood for adulteress. There it was on the breast of her gown for all to see and sneer at. The father of her child was not named. Did he then escape the blame and shame? It seemed that he did, for he was honored and respected. No one knew. Or did they? He knew, and the knowledge ate his vitals, ruined his appetite, robbed his sleep. Then, finally, admitting his guilt to the townspeople, he tore open his shirt to show the scarlet letter "A" written in his own blood above his heart. He had imprinted it. He could not get away from himself.

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel nowhere. All living things move and all purposeful movement must have a goal. A man who has a true goal may encounter difficulties along the way or even be prevented temporarily from making desirable progress. But if his goal is worthy, he is on the right road and every step brings him nearer fulfillment.

The man with a false goal is a deluded and purposeless traveler. Any seeming progress is a fantasy, for the closer he gets to his goal, the further he is from achieving what he really wants. God is our true Home, as every prodigal son and daughter has found out. Away from Him, we are in a foreign country. When we come back to Him we are at home.

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel alone. Seeing the large number of people who walk this way, it would appear to be both crowded and companionable. But if ever a man can be alone in a crowd, he is alone in this one. All the burdens are self-imposed. All the goals are self-chosen. So he bears his burden alone, and he plods toward his goal alone.

But it is because of his isolation from God that the transgressor is most alone. In transgressing, we not only violate divine law, we reject divine love. The real penalty for sin is alienation from God. The sinner pays not only in what he suffers but in what he misses. Those who refuse to go God's way find themselves at last alone in the dead-end situation to which their own rebellious blundering has led them.

God wills what is best for us here and hereafter. When we will to do other than His will, we are going against Love. Is it any wonder that we find the way of the transgressor the hard way?

There is only one way to make the transgressor's road easier. If, seeing the error of his way, he takes the way to the Cross he will find a new road leading from Calvary, a road of pardon and peace. He will know the relief of the lifted burden, the new sense of purpose in a worthy goal, and best of all, he will find a way in fellowship with God--the way of an obedient son.

THE "BOY"

The Marquis de Lafayette was in love and his ardor was as intense as his name was long--Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier Lafayette.

His love affair with America began, it is said, in August, 1775 at a candle-lit dinner in Metz, France. At this elegant dinner, the conversation at one point shifted to the subject of the "insurgents," the name given American rebels by Europeans.

The Marquis, a quixotic youth of 18, was so inflamed by the talk of a people fighting for liberty, that he immediately thought of offering his services.

After a year of involved negotiations, he was given the rank of major general in the Continental Army by Silas Deane, representative of the "Confederation of States" in Paris.

Deane offered the high rank to the Marquis because of "the great dignities which his family holds at this (French) Court, his reputation, and zeal for the liberty of our provinces. ."

His announced love of America and his plans to help the colonies caused him to fall in temporary disfavor with the French King. However, on April 17,1777, Lafayette left his young wife, his despairing family, and the disfavor of the king behind him by sailing to the Colonies. In August, he met General Washington and became one of the General's aides. But the exuberance of youth would not be thwarted; he wanted a command, only a small one at first. Then, perhaps a large one for so large an exuberance once it was proven to be tempered by battle.

Congress replied that Lafayette's rank was an honorary one and that Congress "never meant Lafayette to be given a command and will not countenance him in his application."

So, Lafayette decided to prove himself. He was wounded at the battle of Brandywine in September, 1777, and Washington again asked Congress to give the Marquis a command. Before Congress could do anything, Lafayette distinguished himself by leading 400 men in a successful New Jersey skirmish against the British.

On December 1, Congress proved it could be convinced by passing a resolution that "It is highly agreeable to Congress" to give the Marquis command of a division.

Later, after fighting in Virginia, Lafayette (contemptuously called "the boy" by the British General Cornwallis) pursued Cornwallis in a very unboyish manner to Yorktown where the British were defeated. "The boy" had proved to be an adept, competent, and often wily military commander.

His patriotism for his adopted country was well-expressed by him after he was wounded at Brandywine:

"The moment I heard of America, I loved her. . . ."

"Have a Seat, I'll Be Right Down!"

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A policeman lolled beside the steps of the Dominican Embassy on 22nd Street. He looked bored. There may have been Communist-inspired snipers and gunfire and hand grenades in the streets of Santo Domingo far to the south, but no Communists upset the quiet calm of Embassy Row in Washington.

A lavender wisteria, dazzling in the May sunshine, was the only excitement in the street.

A block away on R Street, another policeman lolled in front of the residence of the Puerto Rican Commissioner. The former Governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, a frequent target for assassin's bullets, was inside. But the policeman outside looked bored.

He sauntered down the street to confer with the other cop guarding the Dominican Embassy. A small boy, aged about five, from the Pakistani Chancery across the way, was the only excited person on Embassy Row. "You got two guns," he chortled with glee. And he kept repeating it, "You got two guns, you got two guns."

Pakistani, whence the small boy came, receives annually from the United States $700,000,000 of American aid and military hardware, which is more than all the foreign aid going to all of Latin America under the Alliance for Progress. Part of that hardware is being used to fight an active war against India. No wonder the Pakistani boy was interested in guns.

The two policemen compared notes, then sauntered back to resume their boring vigil. They had been instructed to look out for bombs and there were no bombs. The two officers did not know it, but behind them as they stood on R Street was the house where A. Mitchell Palmer, Woodrow Wilson's Attorney General, had his front door blown off by an alleged Communist bomber in the months right after World War I.

—3 HORSEMEN OF DEMOCRACY—

Two blocks up the street, past dainty pink crab apple trees, stood the Costa Rican Embassy. No policeman was outside. Costa Rica is a democratic country which doesn't believe in armies and apparently no one around it worried about being bombed. One man inside certainly wasn't worrying.

He was Jose "Pepi" Figueres, former President of Costa Rica, hastily summoned to Washington to help straighten out the mess in Santo Domingo.

"I'm a farmer now," he said. "Today I'm like the Catholic gardener who got a call from the Pope — and the Pope is a lot more important to a Catholic than President Johnson — 'I can't go,' he said, 'I'm only half through my weeding.'

"I was only half through planting my corn when I got a call to come up here."

Pepi Figueres has long been called one of the "Three Caribbean Horsemen of Democracy," the other two being Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico and ex-President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Just three blocks away, on Massachusetts, was Betancourt. He too had turned up in Washington to use his influence to turn the U.S. Marine Corps occupation of the Dominican Republic from another "Bay of Pigs" fiasco to constructive cooperation for Pan America.

"I was up in the woods outside New York in a hideaway not even Drew Pearson could find," said ex-Governor Munoz of Puerto Rico, "when I got word to come down here."

All three know Santo Domingo well. Betancourt of Venezuela knows it best, still bears the raw, red scars on his hands where a bomb, touched off by the henchmen of Dominican Dictator Trujillo, trapped him in his limousine and almost roasted him alive.

"In 1958," said ex-President Figueres, "I wrote a report recommending a UN trusteeship for the Dominican Republic. Juan Bosch, who later became President, read it and said, 'Yes, it will happen in twenty-five years, but not now.'

"That was only seven years ago. Today the OAS has set up what amounts to a Pan American trusteeship for the Dominican Republic." He referred to the OAS vote for a Pan American Army to co-operate with American Marines in bringing order out of chaos.

—NARROW SQUEAK FOR LBJ—

"This goes further than I ever dreamed," said the ex-President of Costa Rica. "I never thought we could put it across with the OAS."

The vote to put it across was only 14, just enough to win. Had the vote been delayed another two hours, it would have been negative; for the Venezuelan ambassador, who abstained, received instructions from Caracas, two hours later, to vote against the Pan American army.

Not even ex-President Betancourt of Venezuela was able to persuade his government to vote with the United States. There was too much bitterness in the streets of Caracas.

Ex-Governor Munoz Marin, talking to President Johnson, proposed that a Latin American general be placed in command of the OAS army. "It would restore confidence in the United States." He recommended Gen. Antonio Briceno Linares, former Venezuelan Minister of Defense, who has spent much of his life fighting Communism.

The three democratic Horsemen of the Caribbean finished their conversations. The two policemen lazying along Embassy Row went home. The lavender wisteria remained brilliant and beautiful in the fading rays of the afternoon sun.

—FROSTING ON AEROSPACE CAKE—

If the House Armed Forces Subcommittee, headed by able Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., digs deeper it will find that the taxpayers' loss wasn't confined to building and land extravagance in the establishment of the Air Force's big Research and Planning contractor, the Aerospace Corp.

Besides the putting green for the recreation of employees—mentioned at a recent hearing—there was other frosting on the cake. The taxpayers also footed the entire bill for such employee "incentive" luxuries as an outdoor dining area, a scenic mall, shuffleboard courts, and table tennis facilities.

All this was installed at the new aerospace plant at El Segundo, Calif., south of Los Angeles, as part of an overall cost of $15,121,000 for buildings completed early last year. A smaller plant at San Bernardino, 900 miles away, meantime has cost the government $6,900,000.

The shuffleboard courts and other swank additives may have made aerospace employees happier in their work, but the taxpayers won't be happy about Rep. Hardy's revelations that $12,000,000 could have been saved on the El Segundo project had government land and available buildings (in the custody of the General Services Administration) been fully used.

Also, Hardy's investigators estimate that another $5,200,000 could have been saved at San Bernardino had nearby Air Force buildings been utilized. This hardly complies with the state policy of Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert in 1961, which stressed that the Federal government should supply facilities for defense contractors whenever possible.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP--Kim Chi rarely sells a star sapphire to an American service man without first applying a blowtorch to it to prove it isn't glass.

Watching Kim Chi earnestly foot pedal the torch as he turns the hot flame on two pieces of glitter on a slab is one of the best acts in the Far East. The glass melts, the real gem doesn't.

"Glass fini," exclaims Kim Chi triumphantly. "But ruby no fini. Emerald no fini. Star sapphire no fini." The impressed GI dutifully forks over $10 or $20 and another victory is chalked up for Oriental salesmanship.

Every war zone needs a native "can-do" man to get things done. "Can-do" man here is undoubtedly Kim Chi. If he can't do it for you, it can't be done.

Kim Chi is a slender man of 39 who stands out because he always wears a black necktie. He looks about 21 but he has eight children and is buoyantly inarticulate in about the same number of languages.

"I learn English by myself," he said proudly, and no one could doubt it.

Kim Chi runs three jewelry stores and is the GI's pal when it comes to changing money, getting laundry done, or having a pair of shoes made. If he's not in that particular line of work himself, he has a relative or close friend who is.

Over a pair of beers which he insisted on buying, Kim Chi explained his philosophy:

"I like the soldiers. Most of our people like the American soldiers. It makes sentiment between us.

"I no get big profit. I try to make all people happy.

"Wife work in stores with me. Children too small."

As to the quality of his torch-tested wares, Capt. Floyd R. Rockhart, 32, a helicopter air rescue pilot from Mogadore, Ohio, said:

"I gave Kim Chi an old jacket and $3 for an emerald and sent it home to my wife. She had it assayed by a jeweler back home, and he told her it is worth between $30 and $40."

Kim Chi wants to become the biggest jewelry dealer in Viet Nam. As I left he insisted on giving me a Buddhist good luck charm, a rough stone which he said was an uncut star sapphire, six old bronze coins, and a green-blue-red gem called an alexandrite.

"I like to go to America sometime and study how do business there," said Kim Chi with wistful good will.

There is little I think we could teach Kim Chi. He is a born can-do man, and I think Tiffany's is lucky he is over here.

NAME FOR A PRINCIPLE

Numerous organizations opposed to the policies of the Administration and acting with the desire to reorganize an effective opposition party are springing up throughout the country.

Almost without exception these movements hang a millstone around their neck by using the word "Conservative" as a predominant part of their title. They readily ignore any suggestions that "conservative" is not a vote-getting vehicle. They are afraid without using the word "Conservative" the public will not understand what they are trying to do.

They seem unwilling to consider for a moment what happened in the recent elections in Canada, Britain, and the U. S. to parties advancing their philosophies as "Conservative."

They could ascertain that three Gallup polls in 1950, April 15, May 14 and June 25, showed that "Conservative" as a name for a philosophy was 15 percentage points less popular than Republican as a name for a political party. The imagination of a thought group is not tied down and curtailed. It carries the romance of exploration, experimentation and adventure and its name should be more popular than any political party. The party must be plagued with unfulfilled promises and unpleasant records subject to criticism. Yet they could easily find that in New York today "Republican" is at least 35 rating points more popular than "Conservative."

Nearly any title hoping to cope with the romantic title, "liberal," is preferable to "Conservative," but the three-syllable word "constructive" as an adjective, verb or noun is specific, promising and above attack.

No one can ever be condemned for being "too constructive."

RIGHT TO WORK AND CIVIL RIGHTS

The American people are convinced that the Right to Work is right. They know that the Right to Work is a worker's right, a state right and an individual right. And, as a matter of fact, many feel that no civil right is more important than the civil right of free choice -- presently guaranteed in 19 states by Right to Work laws.

The demand by some political leaders to repeal Section 14(b) -- the section of The Taft-Hartley Act which allows states to enact Right To Work laws -- is strangely inconsistent with their avowed concern for the civil and human rights of all Americans.

Early in his State of the Union message, President Johnson declared that the nation is "dedicated to freedom from arbitrary power; not merely for all Americans, but for all." Moments later, he called for changes in the Taft-Hartley Act, including Section 14(b) -- changes that would mean a return to nationwide compulsory union membership!

Another paradox is Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz. He said, in a Detroit address in 1963 during a Michigan celebration of the 100th Anniversary of Emancipation Proclamation, "The large edifice of civil rights is dependent on equality of employment opportunity. . . if men are to be truly free in accord with the tenents of democracy, then they must be free to seek a livelihood without prejudice."

It is unfortunate that Secretary Wirtz seems to be speaking out for all men when in reality he appears to mean only some men. For as an outspoken opponent of the right to work he certainly is not including those who do not choose to unionize.

A really strange outlook on human rights is presented by Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Auto Workers. He said recently in Selma, "When you deny freedom to any person, you are destroying your own freedom." Perhaps we should remind Mr. Reuther of the fact that organized labor is today denying freedom to millions of individuals making up our "minority" groups. An excellent example of this is provided by three men in Evansville, Indiana, who face dismissal from their jobs because they contend that their religious beliefs (they are members of the Christadelphian faith) forbid them to join a union. Is Mr. Reuther concerned with the individual rights of these three men? Hardly!

Is there "equality of employment opportunity" for the man who seeks work but cannot obtain it because of his refusal to join an organization against his will? Is the non-union worker who applies for a job in a compulsory union atmosphere "free to seek a livelihood without prejudice?"

Regarding the Negro drive to obtain fair treatment in the job market, countless cases have emerged where Negro and other minority groups workers were denied admittance to a trade due to the exclusionary practices of many closed shop unions. Because of the compulsory union situation, these exclused minority group workers were thwarted in their pursuit of the basic American right to seek employment in one's chosen field.

Thus the civil and human rights of all American workers stand in real and/or potential danger due to the bane of compulsory unionism.

Speak out, for there is a war going on. The shame of it all is that we, who claim to be citizens of the United States of America, are losing and we don't have the time to speak up and fight for a victory that must be won.

What war is going on? Well, there is war in Santo Domingo, Viet Nam and there is always a crisis in Cuba. But none of these is the war that lies the closest to the soul of America right now. It sleeps right around you every night.

The stabbing victim whose last earthly vision is the face of a sick intern watching his first patient die. It is the little girl who will suffer all of her precious life because she turned out to be the target of merciless raptist.

In the crime series that appear on television, (M-Squad, Man From U.N.C.L.E., G-Men, etc.) they always manage to come up with their criminals.

In real life, the truth is that the police officer catches a criminal only 25 times out of a hundred.

The writers of the real life script have put flesh and blood policemen which no stalwart of Central Casting will ever have to endure.

NON-SUPPORTED POLICE

It is expected by the police officer that he will be assaulted in the line of duty. But, this is not the largest burden that is carried by him in his tireless, thankless, but most of all, dangerous rounds. Worse than any of the things mentioned, the policeman learns early that he is the victim of non-support.

Witnesses will serenely watch murder, rape, break-ins, the worst things possible that can be realized by a human and his thinking facilities. They will watch thugs set up to beat the hell out of a policeman and won't even take the time to call the authorities.

What we need here in America is a cure against this inexcusable failure to down the most fearless enemy that is facing us. Even daring us to do anything about it.

Right here in the city of Sikeston people will permit fights, stabblings, embezzlement and won't even report them to the authorities. There have been some cases that it has been impossible for the police to catch the criminal for they can't get any information from people they know were on the scene. What people don't seem to realize is that next time it might be themselves that gets mugged, stabbed, or cheated out of his earnings. Perhaps then a person would appreciate some information given concerning him and the person who mugged him.

Beyond all this however, a policeman must also learn early that he will have to do his job over and over endlessly, for the thugs, swindlers, robbers, etc., will probably be out again to what seems to come the most natural for them. In the United States about 80 per cent of the time the crimes that are committeed are by repeaters.

This means that the hoodlum, the cop fighters, the sex offenders, the career burglars, the stick-up artist is a four-to-one bet to be graduated of our system of law.

To the policeman this means that he is to do his job again and again. To society it means that $3.2 billion is wasted out of the $4. billion spent annually against crimes.

BENEFITS OF COMPANY ADVERTISING

The trade center which depends entirely on agriculture has practically vanished.

Even in the more rural areas, industry helps to supplement community economy. Problems which did not exist in the old country town arise when a farm community becomes a part-time manufacturing community.

Problems are largely a matter of communication. Larger industries have long recognized the need to establish lines of communications between the company and local citizens, employees, and community leaders.

In smaller communities, industry officials are finding that the community newspaper may do the whole job better than any combination of media. Certainly the local newspaper is less expensive than the variety of publications sometimes used to reach all levels of the local citizenry. The local paper is carefully read by company employees, community leaders, and the general public. Communications from industry concerning labor problems, policies, plans, and current activities are carried in both news and advertising sections.

Any newspaper is glad to carry bonafide general news and feature stories about local industries. In most small communities more such news would be used if it were made available to industry.

Similarly, advertising which is concerned with the promotion of company interests can, and does, result in numerous benefits in maintaining better community and employee relations.

DOING IT THE HARD WAY

Whoever that man was, he had by bitter experience discovered an essential truth: this is God's universe. The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel burdened. Sin has a way of accumulating weight until every step along our self-chosen path is a wearisome strain. The cynic may scoff at sin and say, "It's all right if you can get away with it." But the truth is that no one ever "got away with" evil because we can never get away from ourselves.

Remember Hawthorne's book, "The Scarlet Letter"? Hester was condemned to wear the scarlet letter "A" which stood for adulteress. There it was on the breast of her gown for all to see and sneer at. The father of her child was not named. Did he then escape the blame and shame? It seemed that he did, for he was honored and respected. No one knew. Or did they? He knew, and the knowledge ate his vitals, ruined his appetite, robbed his sleep. Then, finally, admitting his guilt to the townspeople, he tore open his shirt to show the scarlet letter "A" written in his own blood above his heart. He had imprinted it. He could not get away from himself.

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel nowhere. All living things move and all purposeful movement must have a goal. A man who has a true goal may encounter difficulties along the way or even be prevented temporarily from making desirable progress. But if his goal is worthy, he is on the right road and every step brings him nearer fulfillment.

The man with a false goal is a deluded and purposeless traveler. Any seeming progress is a fantasy, for the closer he gets to his goal, the further he is from achieving what he really wants. God is our true Home, as every prodigal son and daughter has found out. Away from Him, we are in a foreign country. When we come back to Him we are at home.

The way of the transgressor is the hard way because we travel alone. Seeing the large number of people who walk this way, it would appear to be both crowded and companionable. But if ever a man can be alone in a crowd, he is alone in this one. All the burdens are self-imposed. All the goals are self-chosen. So he bears his burden alone, and he plods toward his goal alone.

But it is because of his isolation from God that the transgressor is most alone. In transgressing, we not only violate divine law, we reject divine love. The real penalty for sin is alienation from God. The sinner pays not only in what he suffers but in what he misses. Those who refuse to go God's way find themselves at last alone in the dead-end situation to which their own rebellious blundering has led them.

God wills what is best for us here and hereafter. When we will to do other than His will, we are going against Love. Is it any wonder that we find the way of the transgressor the hard way?

There is only one way to make the transgressor's road easier. If, seeing the error of his way, he takes the way to the Cross he will find a new road leading from Calvary, a road of pardon and peace. He will know the relief of the lifted burden, the new sense of purpose in a worthy goal, and best of all, he will find a way in fellowship with God--the way of an obedient son.

THE "BOY"

The Marquis de Lafayette was in love and his ardor was as intense as his name was long--Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier Lafayette.

His love affair with America began, it is said, in August, 1775 at a candle-lit dinner in Metz, France. At this elegant dinner, the conversation at one point shifted to the subject of the "insurgents," the name given American rebels by Europeans.

The Marquis, a quixotic youth of 18, was so inflamed by the talk of a people fighting for liberty, that he immediately thought of offering his services.

After a year of involved negotiations, he was given the rank of major general in the Continental Army by Silas Deane, representative of the "Confederation of States" in Paris.

Deane offered the high rank to the Marquis because of "the great dignities which his family holds at this (French) Court, his reputation, and zeal for the liberty of our provinces. ."

His announced love of America and his plans to help the colonies caused him to fall in temporary disfavor with the French King. However, on April 17,1777, Lafayette left his young wife, his despairing family, and the disfavor of the king behind him by sailing to the Colonies. In August, he met General Washington and became one of the General's aides. But the exuberance of youth would not be thwarted; he wanted a command, only a small one at first. Then, perhaps a large one for so large an exuberance once it was proven to be tempered by battle.

Congress replied that Lafayette's rank was an honorary one and that Congress "never meant Lafayette to be given a command and will not countenance him in his application."

So, Lafayette decided to prove himself. He was wounded at the battle of Brandywine in September, 1777, and Washington again asked Congress to give the Marquis a command. Before Congress could do anything, Lafayette distinguished himself by leading 400 men in a successful New Jersey skirmish against the British.

On December 1, Congress proved it could be convinced by passing a resolution that "It is highly agreeable to Congress" to give the Marquis command of a division.

Later, after fighting in Virginia, Lafayette (contemptuously called "the boy" by the British General Cornwallis) pursued Cornwallis in a very unboyish manner to Yorktown where the British were defeated. "The boy" had proved to be an adept, competent, and often wily military commander.

His patriotism for his adopted country was well-expressed by him after he was wounded at Brandywine:

"The moment I heard of America, I loved her. . . ."

Prayers and perspiration aren't compatible, Catholic Marget magazine finds.

The arguments against air conditioning in churches, however, always center on one thing: money. Yet churches with air conditioning have found the investment is compensated for by the collections resulting from a rise in attendance.

The pastors of St. Anne's in north Minneapolis and St. Patrick's, New Orleans, have proved that air conditioning in their churches has paid for itself.

"Have a Seat, I'll Be Right Down!"

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A policeman lolled beside the steps of the Dominican Embassy on 22nd Street. He looked bored. There may have been Communist-inspired snipers and gunfire and hand grenades in the streets of Santo Domingo far to the south, but no Communists upset the quiet calm of Embassy Row in Washington.

A lavender wisteria, dazzling in the May sunshine, was the only excitement in the street.

A block away on R Street, another policeman lolled in front of the residence of the Puerto Rican Commissioner. The former Governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, a frequent target for assassin's bullets, was inside. But the policeman outside looked bored.

He sauntered down the street to confer with the other cop guarding the Dominican Embassy. A small boy, aged about five, from the Pakistani Chancery across the way, was the only excited person on Embassy Row. "You got two guns," he chortled with glee. And he kept repeating it, "You got two guns, you got two guns."

Pakistani, whence the small boy came, receives annually from the United States $700,000,000 of American aid and military hardware, which is more than all the foreign aid going to all of Latin America under the Alliance for Progress. Part of that hardware is being used to fight an active war against India. No wonder the Pakistani boy was interested in guns.

The two policemen compared notes, then sauntered back to resume their boring vigil. They had been instructed to look out for bombs and there were no bombs. The two officers did not know it, but behind them as they stood on R Street was the house where A. Mitchell Palmer, Woodrow Wilson's Attorney General, had his front door blown off by an alleged Communist bomber in the months right after World War I.

—3 HORSEMEN OF DEMOCRACY—

Two blocks up the street, past dainty pink crab apple trees, stood the Costa Rican Embassy. No policeman was outside. Costa Rica is a democratic country which doesn't believe in armies and apparently no one around it worried about being bombed. One man inside certainly wasn't worrying.

He was Jose "Pepi" Figueres, former President of Costa Rica, hastily summoned to Washington to help straighten out the mess in Santo Domingo.

"I'm a farmer now," he said. "Today I'm like the Catholic gardener who got a call from the Pope — and the Pope is a lot more important to a Catholic than President Johnson — 'I can't go,' he said, 'I'm only half through my weeding.'

"I was only half through planting my corn when I got a call to come up here."

Pepi Figueres has long been called one of the "Three Caribbean Horsemen of Democracy," the other two being Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico and ex-President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Just three blocks away, on Massachusetts, was Betancourt. He too had turned up in Washington to use his influence to turn the U.S. Marine Corps occupation of the Dominican Republic from another "Bay of Pigs" fiasco to constructive cooperation for Pan America.

"I was up in the woods outside New York in a hideaway not even Drew Pearson could find," said ex-Governor Munoz of Puerto Rico, "when I got word to come down here."

All three know Santo Domingo well. Betancourt of Venezuela knows it best, still bears the raw, red scars on his hands where a bomb, touched off by the henchmen of Dominican Dictator Trujillo, trapped him in his limousine and almost roasted him alive.

"In 1958," said ex-President Figueres, "I wrote a report recommending a UN trusteeship for the Dominican Republic. Juan Bosch, who later became President, read it and said, 'Yes, it will happen in twenty-five years, but not now.'

"That was only seven years ago. Today the OAS has set up what amounts to a Pan American trusteeship for the Dominican Republic." He referred to the OAS vote for a Pan American Army to co-operate with American Marines in bringing order out of chaos.

—NARROW SQUEAK FOR LBJ—

"This goes further than I ever dreamed," said the ex-President of Costa Rica. "I never thought we could put it across with the OAS."

The vote to put it across was only 14, just enough to win. Had the vote been delayed another two hours, it would have been negative; for the Venezuelan ambassador, who abstained, received instructions from Caracas, two hours later, to vote against the Pan American army.

Not even ex-President Betancourt of Venezuela was able to persuade his government to vote with the United States. There was too much bitterness in the streets of Caracas.

Ex-Governor Munoz Marin, talking to President Johnson, proposed that a Latin American general be placed in command of the OAS army. "It would restore confidence in the United States." He recommended Gen. Antonio Briceno Linares, former Venezuelan Minister of Defense, who has spent much of his life fighting Communism.

The three democratic Horsemen of the Caribbean finished their conversations. The two policemen lazying along Embassy Row went home. The lavender wisteria remained brilliant and beautiful in the fading rays of the afternoon sun.

—FROSTING ON AEROSPACE CAKE—

If the House Armed Forces Subcommittee, headed by able Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., digs deeper it will find that the taxpayers' loss wasn't confined to building and land extravagance in the establishment of the Air Force's big Research and Planning contractor, the Aerospace Corp.

Besides the putting green for the recreation of employees—mentioned at a recent hearing—there was other frosting on the cake. The taxpayers also footed the entire bill for such employee "incentive" luxuries as an outdoor dining area, a scenic mall, shuffleboard courts, and table tennis facilities.

All this was installed at the new aerospace plant at El Segundo, Calif., south of Los Angeles, as part of an overall cost of $15,121,000 for buildings completed early last year. A smaller plant at San Bernardino, 900 miles away, meantime has cost the government $6,900,000.

The shuffleboard courts and other swank additives may have made aerospace employees happier in their work, but the taxpayers won't be happy about Rep. Hardy's revelations that $12,000,000 could have been saved on the El Segundo project had government land and available buildings (in the custody of the General Services Administration) been fully used.

Also, Hardy's investigators estimate that another $5,200,000 could have been saved at San Bernardino had nearby Air Force buildings been utilized. This hardly complies with the state policy of Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert in 1961, which stressed that the Federal government should supply facilities for defense contractors whenever possible.

Doc. Duncan Says

Si what is a wishin well?

Donno zackly, never seen one. I hears its a well where a body tosses in a coin an makes a wish.

Now I got it.

Got what?

Thats the kind of allies we got, wishin us well but don't toss in no coin.

Yep, an they don't toss in no nothin else either. So's if its all biled down, we ain't got no allies. We jes got creditors on a one way street.

H. L. Hunt Says

NAME FOR A PRINCIPLE

Numerous organizations opposed to the policies of the Administration and acting with the desire to reorganize an effective opposition party are springing up throughout the country.

Almost without exception these movements hang a millstone around their neck by using the word "Conservative" as a predominant part of their title. They readily ignore any suggestions that "conservative" is not a vote-getting vehicle. They are afraid without using the word "Conservative" the public will not understand what they are trying to do.

They seem unwilling to consider for a moment what happened in the recent elections in Canada, Britain, and the U. S. to parties advancing their philosophies as "Conservative."

They could ascertain that three Gallup polls in 1950, April 15, May 14 and June 25, showed that "Conservative" as a name for a philosophy was 15 percentage points less popular than Republican as a name for a political party. The imagination of a thought group is not tied down and curtailed. It carries the romance of exploration, experimentation and adventure and its name should be more popular than any political party. The party must be plagued with unfulfilled promises and unpleasant records subject to criticism. Yet they could easily find that in New York today "Republican" is at least 35 rating points more popular than "Conservative."

Nearly any title hoping to cope with the romantic title, "liberal," is preferable to "Conservative," but the three-syllable word "constructive" as an adjective, verb or noun is specific, promising and above attack.

No one can ever be condemned for being "too constructive."

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP--Kim Chi rarely sells a star sapphire to an American service man without first applying a blowtorch to it to prove it isn't glass.

Watching Kim Chi earnestly foot pedal the torch as he turns the hot flame on two pieces of glitter on a slab is one of the best acts in the Far East. The glass melts, the real gem doesn't.

"Glass fini," exclaims Kim Chi triumphantly. "But ruby no fini. Emerald no fini. Star sapphire no fini." The impressed GI dutifully forks over $10 or $20 and another victory is chalked up for Oriental salesmanship.

Every war zone needs a native "can-do" man to get things done. "Can-do" man here is undoubtedly Kim Chi. If he can't do it for you, it can't be done.

Kim Chi is a slender man of 39 who stands out because he always wears a black necktie. He looks about 21 but he has eight children and is buoyantly inarticulate in about the same number of languages.

"I learn English by myself," he said proudly, and no one could doubt it.

Kim Chi runs three jewelry stores and is the GI's pal when it comes to changing money, getting laundry done, or having a pair of shoes made. If he's not in that particular line of work himself, he has a relative or close friend who is.

Over a pair of beers which he insisted on buying, Kim Chi explained his philosophy:

"I like the soldiers. Most of our people like the American soldiers. It makes sentiment between us.

"I no get big profit. I try to make all people happy.

"Wife work in stores with me. Children too small."

As to the quality of his torch-tested wares, Capt. Floyd R. Rockhart, 32, a helicopter air rescue pilot from Mogadore, Ohio, said:

"I gave Kim Chi an old jacket and $3 for an emerald and sent it home to my wife. She had it assayed by a jeweler back home, and he told her it is worth between $30 and $40."

Kim Chi wants to become the biggest jewelry dealer in Viet Nam. As I left he insisted on giving me a Buddhist good luck charm, a rough stone which he said was an uncut star sapphire, six old bronze coins, and a green-blue-red gem called an alexandrite.

"I like to go to America sometime and study how do business there," said Kim Chi with wistful good will.

There is little I think we could teach Kim Chi. He is a born can-do man, and I think Tiffany's is lucky he is over here.

Rev. W. A. Spencer announced open house for the church May 16.

He stated that a series of slides and film strips would be shown explaining the work of the church on the local level up to the jurisdictional level.

Names were drawn for placement of members in the nine circles of the W. S. C. S. Members of Circle 4, with Mrs. Raymert Miller as chairman, served a delicious luncheon in the dining room.

Meats for Ground Beef

During 1964 2.7 billion pounds of ground beef were consumed in this country alone. This comes to almost 15 pounds per person.

What cuts of meat does the retailer use in making ground beef? He has several available to him, usually less-tender cuts like chuck, brisket, short plate, shank, flank and round are used for grinding. Grinding cuts the fibers and thus makes ground beef tender enough for broiling, panbroiling, frying or roasting (baking) as meat loaf.

Hamburger Day To Be May 15

The Sikeston Girl Scouts are continually active in their community. They readily give to those in need and are willing in all that they partake. During the Christmas season, they gave of their time to prepare a Christmas tree for the children in the hospital.

Now they take on a different project, this being Hamburger Day. This will be held May 15, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any girl in Troop 201 or 11. The meal includes hamburgers, potato salad, slaw and cake. See you at the American Legion Hall on May 15.

Miss Joanne Yant And John Russell Tanner Exchange Vows In California

The Trinity Episcopal Church, San Jose, California, was the scene Saturday, April 24, of the wedding of Miss Joanne Yant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Yant of Casper, Wyoming, and John Russell Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tanner of Sikeston.

The Reverend William B. Murdock, pastor of the church, officiated using the double ring ceremony. Arrangements of white lilies, snapdragons, and carnations were used in the altar decorations.

Mrs. Mildred Shepherd, church organist, played introductory selections by Titcomb, DuBois and Bach. The wedding march was Trumpet Voluntary in D by Purcell.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite empire style gown of pure white silk organza and French Alencon lace that featured a chapel-length train. The bodice of the dress and circular matilla veil were also of Alencon lace.

She carried a bouquet of white rose buds and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Stephen P. Henderson served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Donna Chayer and Mrs. William Luring. Their dresses were of pale yellow silk crepe. The attendants' gowns were floor-length and created with empire waistlines. They wore matching tulle veil hats; each attendant carried crescent shaped bouquets of yellow rose buds and white marquerites.

Thomas H. Baughey, best man, Wally F. Altom and Howard W. Yant, ushers, served as the groom's attendants.

Mrs. Yant chose for her daughter's wedding a sage green silk lace dress, matching hat and shoes with beige gloves and purse.

Mrs. Tanner wore a beige and turquoise silk brocade dress with beige accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of golden orchids.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Yant entertained with a reception and wedding breakfast at "17" West Restaurant. Mrs. Wally F. Altom was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was decorated with a tiered wedding cake topped by a white rosebud nosegay and the bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets.

WEDDING TRIP

The bride's going away ensemble was a natural colored raw silk suit and matching accessories. The couple left for a wedding trip to northern California. They are now at home in San Jose, California. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tanner on Friday evening before the wedding.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

SKIMMER — Frills and flounces keynote this low-waisted, sleeveless dress by Kate Greenaway. Styled with a one-shoulder opening, it's in raspberry-colored cotton flocked with dainty white dots. The Lowenstein fabric is wash and wear cotton.

On Dec. 23, 1777, Gen. George Washington wrote in his diary at Valley Forge, about 20 miles northwest of Philadelphia: "We have this day no less than 2,873 men in camp unfit for duty because they are barefooted and otherwise naked . . . Numbers are still obliged to sit all night by fires." The troops, which numbered about 11,000, spent the winter in log huts and received little in the way of food and clothing. Later, the winter encampment became the first training camp of any United States forces.

Girl Scouting

By MARSHA GREENE

I am a Girl Scout and am a member of Troop #201. Scouting means a lot to me because of all the many experiences I have had as a member of the scouting movement. Such things as camping, helping others, taking trips and so many other things have made my youth so much more meaningful.

We finance all our trips and other costly undertakings by the profits we receive from different types of money-making projects. On Saturday, May 15, one of these projects will be going on and you, the people of this area, can help my Troop, #201 and also Troop #13, by attending our Hamburger Day. It will be held at the American Legion Hall from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Orders will also be delivered out so if you can't come to the hall, call and your order will be delivered to your door. Help the Girl Scouts of America by participating in this project and also help yourself by getting a good meal on Saturday, May 15.

Mrs. Charles Layton Finley

Miss Linda Lambert And Charles L. Finley Are Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Lambert wish to announce the marriage of their daughter, Linda, to Charles Layton Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Finley, Sr., of 26 Military Road, Marion Arkansas. The couple was married on March 13.

Mrs. Finley, a graduate of Sikeston High School, attended T. W. U. in Texas, Southeast Missouri State, and will receive a B. S. Degree in Psychology from Memphis State University on May 29.

Mr. Finley was graduated from Christian Brothers High School, attended the University of Arkansas and Memphis State University and is presently with the Air Force Reserve at Sheppard AFB.

Woman's Society Of Christian Service Has Luncheon Meeting

"Salt, Light and String" was the theme of the program when the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met May 5.

Mrs. Robert Dempster, president of W. S. C. S. was leader of the program which was divided into five services --- memorial, membership, world bank, pledge and commitment.

Mrs. M. L. Canedy was soloist at the close of each service. Mrs. Elmer Childress was accompanist.

Mrs. Myrtle Moll conducted a memorial service for the following deceased members: Mrs. Ella Shuppert, Mrs. A. J. Goetz, Mrs. Lonnie Harrison, Mrs. J. H. Galeener, Mrs. Marie Conklin, Mrs. Belle Morrison and Mrs. Jake Sutton.

Life memberships were presented to Mrs. W. L. Huters, Mrs. E. F. Wiedemann and Mrs. Joe Dye. Mrs. Dempsey Gardner, Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. John O. Ensor had charge of this service.

The World Bank Service was conducted by Mrs. Joe Dye.

Mrs. Stella Emory conducted the pledge service. Mrs. Vincent Wissman, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. Thatcher Scism and Mrs. Joe Leslie each read a brief pledge which contained food for thought for all members. Pledge cards were signed by members at this time.

Rev. Joseph Wagner gave an inspiring talk on "Commitment of Time."

The program was closed by members forming a circle and reading in unison a prayer of reaffirming Discipleship.

In a business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Robert Dempster, announcements were made.

Mrs. Raymert Miller gave a report of the District Conference held at Columbia, Missouri. Mrs. Robert Dempster and Mrs. M. L. Canedy also attended this conference.

Mrs. Tanner Dye, Mrs. Bert Rowe and Mrs. Thatcher Scism were installed as District officers at the W. S. C. S. District meeting held at Poplar Bluff May 5 and each received Life Memberships. Mrs. John O. Ensor, Mrs. Myrtle Moll, Mrs. Robert Dempster, Mrs. Stella Emory, Mrs. Vincent Wissman and Mrs. Earl Allen were also in attendance at the W. S. C. S. District Meeting.

Rev. W. A. Spencer announced open house for the church May 16.

He stated that a series of slides and film strips would be shown explaining the work of the church on the local level up to the jurisdictional level.

Names were drawn for placement of members in the nine circles of the W. S. C. S.

Members of Circle 4, with Mrs. Raymert Miller as chairman, served a delicious luncheon in the dining room.

Meats for Ground Beef

During 1964 2.7 billion pounds of ground beef were consumed in this country alone. This comes to almost 15 pounds per person.

What cuts of meat does the retailer use in making ground beef? He has several available to him, usually less-tender cuts like chuck, brisket, short plate, shank, flank and round are used for grinding. Grinding cuts the fibers and thus makes ground beef tender enough for broiling, panbroiling, frying or roasting (baking) as meat loaf.

Hamburger Day To Be May 15

The Sikeston Girl Scouts are continually active in their community. They readily give to those in need and are willing in all that they partake. During the Christmas season, they gave of their time to prepare a Christmas tree for the children in the hospital.

Now they take on a different project, this being Hamburger Day. This will be held May 15, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any girl in Troop 201 or 11. The meal includes hamburgers, potato salad, slaw and cake. See you at the American Legion Hall on May 15.

Mrs. John Russell Tanner

Miss Joanne Yant And John Russell Tanner Exchange Vows In California

The Trinity Episcopal Church, San Jose, California, was the scene Saturday, April 24, of the wedding of Miss Joanne Yant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Yant of Casper, Wyoming, and John Russell Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tanner of Sikeston.

The Reverend William B. Murdock, pastor of the church, officiated using the double ring ceremony. Arrangements of white lilies, snapdragons, and carnations were used in the altar decorations.

Mrs. Mildred Shepherd, church organist, played introductory selections by Titcomb, DuBois and Bach. The wedding march was Trumpet Voluntary in D by Purcell.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite empire style gown of pure white silk organza and French Alencon lace that featured a chapel-length train. The bodice of the dress and circular matilla veil were also of Alencon lace.

She carried a bouquet of white rose buds and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Stephen P. Henderson served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Donna Chayer and Mrs. William Luring. Their dresses were of pale yellow silk crepe. The attendants' gowns were floor-length and created with empire waistlines. They wore matching tulle veil hats; each attendant carried crescent shaped bouquets of yellow rose buds and white marquerites.

Thomas H. Baughey, best man, Wally F. Altom and Howard W. Yant, ushers, served as the groom's attendants.

Mrs. Yant chose for her daughter's wedding a sage green silk lace dress, matching hat and shoes with beige gloves and purse.

Mrs. Tanner wore a beige and turquoise silk brocade dress with beige accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of golden orchids.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Yant entertained with a reception and wedding breakfast at "17" West Restaurant. Mrs. Wally F. Altom was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was decorated with a tiered wedding cake topped by a white rosebud nosegay and the bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets.

WEDDING TRIP

The bride's going away ensemble was a natural colored raw silk suit and matching accessories. The couple left for a wedding trip to northern California. They are now at home in San Jose, California. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tanner on Friday evening before the wedding.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests at the Yant - Tanner wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Yant of Casper, Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. H. Harrison Tanner of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. West of Houston, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen P. Henderson, Greenbrae, California, Mr. and Mrs. Wally F. Altom and daughter of Sikeston and Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, Mr. Howard W. Yant of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Mr. Thomas H. Baughey of Florence, Missouri, Carol Beyley, Hayward, California, Mr. and Mrs. William Luring of Saratoga, California and Miss Donna Chayer of Mountain View, California.

Arbutus Class Has 13 Present For Meeting

The Arbutus Class of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday, May 4, at the church with 11 members and two visitors present. The visitors were Mrs. Rushia Baty of Oran and Jenna Lou Richards.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Milem Limbaugh, president. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Alma Mahar. The Devotional was given by Mrs. Limbaugh; the subject of the devotional was "Christian Mother" taken from Proverbs 31: 10-31. Closing prayer was given by Mrs. Edna York. A social hour followed with refreshments being served by Mrs. E. P. Waldman, Mrs. Edna York and Mrs. W. C. Winstead, hostesses for the evening.

SKIMMER — Frills and flounces keynote this low-waisted, sleeveless dress by Kate Greenaway. Styled with a one-shoulder opening, it's in raspberry-colored cotton flocked with dainty white dots. The Lowenstein fabric is wash and wear cotton.

On Dec. 23, 1777, Gen. George Washington wrote in his diary at Valley Forge, about 20 miles northwest of Philadelphia: "We have this day no less than 2,873 men in camp unfit for duty because they are barefooted and otherwise naked. . . . Numbers are still obliged to sit all night by fires." The troops, which numbered about 11,000, spent the winter in log huts and received little in the way of food and clothing. Later, the winter encampment became the first training camp of any United States forces.

Girl Scouting

By MARSHA GREENE

I am a Girl Scout and am a member of Troop #201. Scouting means a lot to me because of all the many experiences I have had as a member of the scouting movement. Such things as camping, helping others, taking trips and so many other things have made my youth so much more meaningful.

We finance all our trips and other costly undertakings by the profits we receive from different types of money-making projects. On Saturday, May 15, one of these projects will be going on and you, the people of this area, can help my Troop, #201 and also Troop #13, by attending our Hamburger Day. It will be held at the American Legion Hall from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Orders will also be delivered out so if you can't come to the hall, call and your order will be delivered to your door. Help the Girl Scouts of America by participating in this project and also help yourself by getting a good meal on Saturday, May 15.

I wish the churches were as afraid of imperfection as they are of perfection. — Billy Graham

Pinch hitter Johnny Briggs powered the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Philadelphia Monday night.

Briggs doubled as a pinch hitter for pitcher Jack Baldschun in the ninth inning and scored a run to tie it 2-2 on a single from John Callison.

Then in the 10th inning Briggs smashed a towering drive over the right field wall with one man on to give the Phillies their victory.

Tim McCarver got the first St. Louis run with a homer in the fifth but Philadelphia tied it in the seventh. St. Louis went ahead in the eighth when Mike Shannon scored on a slow grounder off the bat of Dick Groat.

The loss dropped St. Louis three games below .500 with a 10-13 record.

Bob Gibson (5-0), who has accounted for half the games the redbirds have won this season starts tonight against the New York Mets at New York. Warren Spahn (2-2) will start for the Mets.

Big Eight Track Meet

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. AP--The Big Eight tuned up for the 37th track championships this weekend in Lincoln with a world record by Oklahoma State in the two-mile relay, a swift 440-220 double by Oklahoma's Bill Calhoun and several other good marks.

The OSU quartet ran 7:18.3 at the West Coast Relays in Fresno, Calif., Saturday night, smashing the world mark of 7:19. The four Cowboy runners averaged just under 1:49.6 per man, as Jim Metcalf ran 1:50.6, John Perry 1:47.5, Tom Ruden 1:49.2 and Dave Perry 1:51.

The application for the world mark will list it as 7:18.2-5 because international rules require the nearest one-fifth of a second at the distance.

Two other season bests were set by the league, as Bill Calhoun ran a 21-flat 220, just one-tenth off the meet record around one turn, and Gene Crews of Missouri put the shot 57-8 1/4. Calhoun also won the 440 in 47.7.

The conference is counting Calhoun's 220 as the season best because Missouri's Charles Allen had a slight tailwind in his 21-flat a week earlier.

Overall, the weekend marks were slight off the pervious week because most coaches don't want to risk injuries ahead of the big meet by going all-out.

Even so, there were some fine marks. Lowell Paul of Kansas ran 1:50.8, just one-tenth off the league season best. It was his career best. Charlie Greene of Nebraska and Jim Jackson of Oklahoma both ran 9.5 in the 100. K-State's Bill Floerke, the national leader at 266-5 1/2 in the Kansas Relays, threw the javelin 237-9 1/2. KU's Purma had a career best, 230-6.

Oklahoma's Jim Farrell vaulted 15-4 and Phil Manuel of Kansas went 15 feet, a career best. Nebraska's defending Big Eight outdoor 440 champion, Dave Crook, ran 47.5. Missouri miler Robin Lingle, with a career best of 4:01.7, was an easy winner in 4:12.2.

Kansas swept both the mile and two-mile to win 78-67 at Oklahoma. Missouri won 82-63 at Nebraska. Iowa State won 102-43 at South Dakota but lost hurdler John Adams with an ankle injury. K-State edged Air Force 74-71 at Manhattan by winning the mile relay in the rain. Colorado will try again today to get in its meet with Denver and Colorado State.

Missouri's turkey hunters killed over a hundred wild turkeys more this season than last, according to preliminary reports from turkey checking station.

The total this season, April 27 through 30, was 476 according to the early reports. The totals -- especially the county totals -- could change somewhat when check station records are analyzed.

In the early reports however, Madison is shown as the leading county this season with 55 kills, while Iron reported 49. Other high counties reported were Ste. Genevieve with 39, St. Francois with 34, Philps with 32, and Dent with 31.

As usual, the largest kill was reported opening day when 187 birds were taken. The kill on the second day was 94, but the third day, April 29, was a better one with 108 kills reported. Hunters took a reported 87 turkeys the last day of the season.

Last season's kill was 369, a success ration of 1 turkey for each 8.6 hunters. Permit sales totalled 2,961 last year. Permit sales have not been audited for this season and no figure is available.

$150,000. Preakness To Be Run Saturday

BALTIMORE AP -- A fairly definite field of 10 for Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness showed today that Lucky Debonair still has to do some convincing that he's the class of the 3-year-old thoroughbred racing crop.

"I don't know what else he has to do," wondered trainer Frank Catrone. "But every time he wins, they seem to find some excuse why he might not have, or shouldn't.

"He's won six out of nine races and was second the other three times. What more can you ask?"

After Lucky Debonair won the Kentucky Derby May 1, speculators dwelled on what might have happed if Dapper Dan had started moving a little sooner or the race had been just a little bit longer. He was last at three-quarters of a mile and only a neck behind Lucky at the end of the 1 1/4 miles.

It would have made no difference, according to the confident Catrone.

"He wasn't going to pass my horse," declared the trainer. "They could have run around the track again."

When Lucky Debonair first popped into prominence by beating Jacinto in the Santa Anita Derby, there also were skeptics. They cited on extremely fast workout before the race by Jacinto, taking too much out of him.

Jacinto hasn't raced since his licking by Lucky Debonair. He came to Pimlico last Saturday for the Preakness Prep but aggravated an ankle injury and is back on the sidelines.

Owners of six other starters in the Kentucky Derby were undaunted by Lucky Debonair's triumph and are pacing around waiting for the Preakness.

In addition to Dapper Dan, the horses are Tom Rolfe, Native Charger, Hail to All, Swift Ruler and Flag Raiser.

Trainer Hirsch Jacobs will not only give Flag Raiser another shot in the middle event of the Triple Crown but will send out Turn To Reason.

Both were winners last Saturday, Flag Raiser in the Withers Mile in New York and Turn To Reason in a division of the Illinois Derby.

Also listed as firm entries are Needle's Count, winner of the Preakness Preg after Jacinto's withdrawal, and Selart, a recent winner at Garden State over Bosun, which had been one of the highly rated 2-year-olds of 1964.

BATTING -- Carl Yastrzemski, Boston, drove in all of the Red Sox runs in a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees with two homers and a sacrifice fly.

PITCHING -- Mel Nelson, Minnesota, saved a 4-3 triumph for the Twins over the Chicago White Sox by coming on in relief in the ninth inning with two on and none out and retiring the next three batters.

Eleven of the 17 meet records will be in jeopardy Friday and Saturday at Lincoln. Two national collegiate records could go. Jim Miller of Colorado already holds the collegiate and American mark of 36.1 in the 330 hurdles. Floerke could get the collegiate javelin mark of 273-10 set by Bill Alley of Kansas five years ago.

Greene is pointing for a 9.3 and hinting broadly that he may go after the 220, which he seldom runs although he did 20.5 in high school.

It will be the last shot at a team crown for Bill Easton, Kansas coach whose teams have dominated the league for 18 years. Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Nebraska all have a good shot at the championship.

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency...could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It guards against tiny impurities (present in all gasolines) right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

Pinch hitter Johnny Briggs powered the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Philadelphia Monday night.

Briggs doubled as a pinch hitter for pitcher Jack Baldschun in the ninth inning and scored a run to tie it 2-2 on a single from John Callison.

Then in the 10th inning Briggs smashed a towering drive over the right field wall with one man on to give the Phillies their victory.

Tim McCarver got the first St. Louis run with a homer in the fifth but Philadelphia tied it in the seventh. St. Louis went ahead in the eighth when Mike Shannon scored on a slow grounder off the bat of Dick Groat.

The loss dropped St. Louis three games below .500 with a 10-13 record.

Bob Gibson (5-0), who has accounted for half the games the redbirds have won this season starts tonight against the New York Mets at New York. Warren Spahn (2-2) will start for the Mets.

Big Eight Track Meet

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. AP--The Big Eight tuned up for the 37th track championships this weekend in Lincoln with a world record by Oklahoma State in the two-mile relay, a swift 440-220 double by Oklahoma's Bill Calhoun and several other good marks.

The OSU quartet ran 7:18.3 at the West Coast Relays in Fresno, Calif., Saturday night, smashing the world mark of 7:19. The four Cowboy runners averaged just under 1:49.6 per man, as Jim Metcalf ran 1:50.6, John Perry 1:47.5, Tom Ruden 1:49.2 and Dave Perry 1:51.

The application for the world mark will list it as 7:18. 2-5 because international rules require the nearest one-fifth of a second at the distance.

Two other season bests were set by the league, as Bill Calhoun ran a 21-flat 220, just one-tenth off the meet record around one turn, and Gene Crews of Missouri put the shot 57-8 1/4. Calhoun also won the 440 in 47.7.

The conference is counting Calhoun's 220 as the season best because Missouri's Charles Allen had a slight tailwind in his 21-flat a week earlier.

Overall, the weekend marks were slight off the pervious week because most coaches don't want to risk injuries ahead of the big meet by going all-out.

Even so, there were some fine marks. Lowell Paul of Kansas ran 1:50.8, just one-tenth off the league season best. It was his career best. Charlie Greene of Nebraska and Jim Jackson of Oklahoma both ran 9.5 in the 100. K-State's Bill Floerke, the national leader at 266-5 1/2 in the Kansas Relays, threw the javelin 237-9 1/2. KU's Purma had a career best, 230-6.

Oklahoma's Jim Farrell vaulted 15-4 and Phil Manuel of Kansas went 15 feet, a career best. Nebraska's defending Big Eight outdoor 440 champion, Dave Crook, ran 47.5. Missouri miler Robin Lingle, with a career best of 4:01.7, was an easy winner in 4:12.2.

Kansas swept both the mile and two-mile to win 78-67 at Oklahoma. Missouri won 82-63 at Nebraska. Iowa State won 102-43 at South Dakota but lost hurdler John Adams with an ankle injury. K-State edged Air Force 74-71 at Manhattan by winning the mile relay in the rain. Colorado will try again today to get in its meet with Denver and Colorado State.

Eleven of the 17 meet records will be in jeopardy Friday and Saturday at Lincoln. Two national collegiate records could go. Jim Miller of Colorado already holds the collegiate and American mark of 36.1 in the 330 hurdles. Floerke could get the collegiate javelin mark of 273-10 set by Bill Alley of Kansas five years ago.

Greene is pointing for a 9.3 and hinting broadly that he may go after the 220, which he seldom runs although he did 20.5 in high school.

It will be the last shot at a team crown for Bill Easton, Kansas coach whose teams have dominated the league for 18 years. Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Nebraska all have a good shot at the championship.

Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on North West Street from Compress Road to a point 505 feet north in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $5.50 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 30th day of April, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the City Clerk in the City Administrative Building, 316 South Kingshighway, in Sikeston, Missouri, until 5:00 p.m., May 21, 1965, for the furnishing of all materials, equipment, labor, costs and construction of the following items; in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the City Administrative Building, Viz:

Item 1; 6" x 7' concrete widening with integral curb on Gladys Street from Kingshighway to Prairie Street.

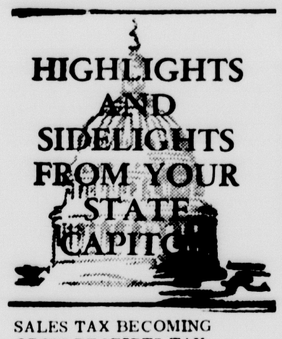

Item 2; 6" x 7' concrete widening with Integral curb on Ruth Street from Delmar Street to Frisco Street.

Item 3; 6" x 8' concrete widening with integral curb on Greer Street from East Street to Main Street.

Copies of the plans and specifications are available to bidders, and may be obtained from the City Clerk upon payment of two dollars ($2.00) for each set of plans. Sealed bids shall be submitted separately on each or any of the items as listed above and separate contracts shall be awarded on each item. Successful bidder shall post a performance.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

John W. Vaughn
City Clerk

SALES TAX BECOMING GROSS RECEIPTS TAX

The House has passed and sent on to the Senate a measure aimed at closing the loopholes now existing in the state sales tax collection system and which if allowed to remain could cost Missouri an estimated $6 million annually.

Under the present system of collecting the sales tax, a bracket affair is employed whereby nothing is charged on sales under 24 cents. From 25 cents to 50 cents the tax is a penny; from 51 to 74 cents it's two cents; and from 75 cents to a dollar, the tax is three cents.

Under a companion bill to the gross receipts tax measure, a new bracketing program would be established providing a penny tax on sales of 15 cents to 54 cents; two cents on sales from 55 cents to 80 cents; and three cents up to a dollar.

The big catch in the new measure providing for a gross receipt tax appears to be that operators of such coin devices as vending machines would have to pay an across the board three per cent on their total sales.

Opponents of the change have contended that it's merely a new way to increase taxes, but Majority Floor leader Mel Carnahan, who pushed the measure after the death of its sponsor, H. F. Patterson, discounts this agrument.

"It is merely recouping a loss in the tax structure on transactions which we thought were covered before the court opinion in the automatic vendors case," Carnahan said.

If the companion bill setting up a new bracketing system fails, which seems improbable, officials indicate the old brackets would remain in effect.

Carnahan said he has little doubt that the measure will pass the Senate handily, especially in view of the need for more state funds.

VANLANDINGHAM ENDORSES GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESSION

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham of Boone County has given his endorsement to a proposal calling for a vote by the people on whether a governor should succeed himself.

The measure already has been approved by the House and Senate Judiciary Committee and Vanlandingham feels it has a good chance for passage.

In a recent report to his constituents, Vanlandingham quoted remarks by Governor Warren Hearnes, a staunch supporter of the proposal:

"A governor runs on a legislative platform and is held by the public responsible for initiating policy. He is held responsible for expressing the views of the state on new issues arising during the tenure of his office. He should have sufficient time to carry out these policies and programs and the people should have the right to judge the success or failure of a governor."

MANY BILLS BOGGED DOWN IN COMMITTEE

The great majority of bills introduced in both house of the General Assembly this session remain bogged down in committee with few except, perhaps the most important, standing any chance of being brought out.

The second week in May saw some 220 bills in various stages of readiness on the House calendar while more than 100 remained on the Senate agenda.

It appears to be a general feeling around the capitol that few others will be released in time by committee to do any good. However, many appropriation bills remain to be finalized by committee even though time is running short.

WAR ON POVERTY APPEARS TO BE PROGRESSING WELL

According to officials in the Missouri office of Urban Affairs which is charged with helping fight the War on Poverty in Missouri, the effort is moving ahead rapidly and the state reportedly leads the other states in the number of projects either in force or being contemplated.

Philip V. Maher, a former Clayton attorney who heads the Urban Affairs department, notes that the agency actually is a coordinating body to aid the various counties in initiating locally-run programs.

Now on application in Washington is a project dubbed "Operation Headstart" which is aimed at helping pre-school youngsters secure a background placing them on a par with more fortunate kids by the time they reach school age.

Other projects in the works include the training of women at the old VA hospital facility at Excelsior Springs; neighborhood youth programs; conservative projects; and aid to needy college students.

The "Sound of Music" Cast

"To All of You":

One could not find enough words to tell all of you what a beautiful, magnificient, talented show was seen to-nite in Sikeston. It was the finest performance we have ever seen — including those seen in St. Louis Muny opera and others.

Would like to say "Thanks" to every one connected with this production for a most enjoyable three hrs. every spent in Sikeston — and "JoAnne Fox", Miss Julie Andrews has nothing on you as "Maria".

Every comment & critic in auditorium was nothing but 'Superb' — The standing ovation was well deserved.

by J. Davis

The "Sound of Music" presented by the Sikeston Little Theatre opened last nite to a packed house and reviews from other papers are coming in as the cast await word of Success or failure at the Lounge of the Mitchell's. From "Variety" America's top show biz mag. critics' predicted a long, long run. "Voices were superb in every part, and Director Terrell, Producer Mitchell & Musical Producer Fox have a glamorous "Hit" on Tanner (Broadway) St. "7". Curtain calls & a standing ovation was given the cast for its beautiful performance." Jo Anne Fox as "Maria" carried the show to it's top ratings. Her voice was beautiful as she hit the notes and octaves. A bright future for Jo Anne Fox.

From "Show Biz" mag, quote —"Quite a show and performance by all — Patsy Mitchell as Mother Abbess, Carole Sue Clayton as Elsa, Bill Hailey as Max and Alan Harris as Capt. Von Trapp gave outstanding singing performances as their voices sang out the Rodgers & Hammerstein hit song. No worry for these four on Broadway for next few years."

From "Down Beat" — quote "Music & direction outstanding; The "Sisters" voices blended together in perfect harmony & added to the show as this hit production unfolded its beautiful. Art scenery designs located in Austrian Alps, Sound effects & lighting added to the already spoken "Bravos".

From "Broadway Beacon" critics praised the performance of all the children in cast; quote — "Everyone gave top performances, and Patty McMullin as "Leisl the teen-ager and ingenue part gave a lift to the show as her beautiful voice sang the "Do-Ra-Me— & Russ Felker as "Rolf" just couldn't be replaced as his part was meant for his cute, comedy serious part."

From others around the city, critics & audiences were kind as many praised all the commey scenes of T. Slatter & W. W. Wilkison & Veronica Henry & Wm. Spencer: Quite a show; quite an ovation for all. According to ticket chairman Barb Smith & Billie McCann, advance sales are soaring.

As reviews pour in, all we can see is that the cast should be a proud group as they all gave the best performance seen on "Tanner St." in many years — Just a big congratulation to all for a job well done —

For nearly 1,500 years after the catastrophe of the year 79, which destroyed Pompeii and two other cities, volcanic Mount Vesuvius remained inactive until it erupted violently on Dec. 16, 1631, killing at least 18,000 persons. Since this great convulsion, which emptied the crater, Vesuvius has never again lapsed into a totally inactive condition. Because of this the height of the mountain varies. After the great eruption of 1906 the height went from 4,275 feet down to 3,668 feet.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said sidewalks on above mentioned street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing costs including materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is 70¢ per lineal foot of abutting property on each side of the street, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for materials used in the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the Statutes of the State of Missouri, and the Ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council, the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston, is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay the entire cost of the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this third day of May, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk, Seal.

SALES TAX BECOMING GROSS RECEIPTS TAX

The House has passed and sent on to the Senate a measure aimed at closing the loopholes now existing in the state sales tax collection system and which if allowed to remain could cost Missouri an estimated $6 million annually.

Under the present system of collecting the sales tax, a bracket affair is employed whereby nothing is charged on sales under 24 cents. From 25 cents to 50 cents the tax is a penny; from 51 to 74 cents it's two cents; and from 75 cents to a dollar, the tax is three cents.

Under a companion bill to the gross receipts tax measure, a new bracketing program would be established providing a penny tax on sales of 15 cents to 54 cents; two cents on sales from 55 cents to 80 cents; and three cents up to a dollar.

The big catch in the new measure providing for a gross receipt tax appears to be that operators of such coin devices as vending machines would have to pay an across the board three per cent on their total sales.

Opponents of the change have contended that it's merely a new way to increase taxes, but Majority Floor leader Mel Carnahan, who pushed the measure after the death of its sponsor, H. F. Patterson, discounts this agrument.

"It is merely recouping a loss in the tax structure on transactions which we thought were covered before the court opinion in the automatic vendors case," Carnahan said.

If the companion bill setting up a new bracketing system fails, which seems improbable, officials indicate the old brackets would remain in effect.

Carnahan said he has little doubt that the measure will pass the Senate handily, especially in view of the need for more state funds.

VANLANDINGHAM ENDORSES GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESSION

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham of Boone County has given his endorsement to a proposal calling for a vote by the people on whether a governor should succeed himself.

The measure already has been approved by the House and Senate Judiciary Committee and Vanlandingham feels it has a good chance for passage.

In a recent report to his constituents, Vanlandingham quoted remarks by Governor Warren Hearnes, a staunch supporter of the proposal:

"A governor runs on a legislative platform and is held by the public responsible for initiating policy. He is held responsible for expressing the views of the state on new issues arising during the tenure of his office. He should have sufficient time to carry out these policies and programs and the people should have the right to judge the success or failure of a governor."

MANY BILLS BOGGED DOWN IN COMMITTEE

The great majority of bills introduced in both house of the General Assembly this session remain bogged down in committee with few except, perhaps the most important, standing any chance of being brought out.

The second week in May saw some 220 bills in various stages of readiness on the House calendar while more than 100 remained on the Senate agenda.

It appears to be a general feeling around the capitol that few others will be released in time by committee to do any good. However, many appropriation bills remain to be finalized by committee even though time is running short.

WAR ON POVERTY APPEARS TO BE PROGRESSING WELL

According to officials in the Missouri office of Urban Affairs which is charged with helping fight the War on Poverty in Missouri, the effort is moving ahead rapidly and the state reportedly leads the other states in the number of projects either in force or being contemplated.

Philip V. Maher, a former Clayton attorney who heads the Urban Affairs department, notes that the agency actually is a coordinating body to aid the various counties in initiating locally-run programs.

Now on application in Washington is a project dubbed "Operation Headstart" which is aimed at helping pre-school youngsters secure a background placing them on a par with more fortunate kids by the time they reach school age.

Other projects in the works include the training of women at the old VA hospital facility at Excelsior Springs; neighborhood youth programs; conservative projects; and aid to needy college students.

The "Sound of Music" Cast
835 William St.
Sikeston, Mo.
"To All of You":

One could not find enough words to tell all of you what a beautiful, magnificient, talented show was seen to-nite in Sikeston. It was the finest performance we have ever seen — including those seen in St. Louis Muny opera and others.

Would like to say "Thanks" to every one connected with this production for a most enjoyable three hrs. every spent in Sikeston — and "JoAnne Fox", Miss Julie Andrews has nothing on you as "Maria".

Every comment & critic in auditorium was nothing but 'Superb' — The standing ovation was well deserved.

John W. "Red" Davis

by J. Davis

The "Sound of Music" presented by the Sikeston Little Theatre opened last nite to a packed house and reviews from other papers are coming in as the cast await word of Success or failure at the Lounge of the Mitchell's. From "Variety" America's top show biz mag. critics' predicted a long, long run. "Voices were superb in every part, and Director Terrell, Producer Mitchell & Musical Producer Fox have a glamorous "Hit" on Tanner (Broadway) St. "7". Curtain calls & a standing ovation was given the cast for its beautiful performance." Jo Anne Fox as "Maria" carried the show to it's top ratings. Her voice was beautiful as she hit the notes and octaves. A bright future for Jo Anne Fox.

From "Show Biz" mag, quote —"Quite a show and performance by all — Patsy Mitchell as Mother Abbess, Carole Sue Clayton as Elsa, Bill Hailey as Max and Alan Harris as Capt. Von Trapp gave outstanding singing performances as their voices sang out the Rodgers & Hammerstein hit song. No worry for these four on Broadway for next few years."

From "Down Beat" — quote "Music & direction outstanding; The "Sisters" voices blended together in perfect harmony & added to the show as this hit production unfolded its beautiful. Art scenery designs located in Austrian Alps, Sound effects & lighting added to the already spoken "Bravos".

From "Broadway Beacon" critics praised the performance of all the children in cast; quote — "Everyone gave top performances, and Patty McMullin as "Leisl the teen-ager and ingenue part gave a lift to the show as her beautiful voice sang the "Do-Ra-Me— & Russ Felker as "Rolf" just couldn't be replaced as his part was meant for his cute, comedy serious part."

From others around the city, critics & audiences were kind as many praised all the commey scenes of T. Slatter & W. W. Wilkison & Veronica Henry & Wm. Spencer: Quite a show; quite an ovation for all. According to ticket chairman Barb Smith & Billie McCann, advance sales are soaring.

As reviews pour in, all we can see is that the cast should be a proud group as they all gave the best performance seen on "Tanner St." in many years — Just a big congratulation to all for a job well done —

For nearly 1,500 years after the catastrophe of the year 79, which destroyed Pompeii and two other cities, volcanic Mount Vesuvius remained inactive until it erupted violently on Dec. 16, 1631, killing at least 18,000 persons. Since this great convulsion, which emptied the crater, Vesuvius has never again lapsed into a totally inactive condition. Because of this the height of the mountain varies. After the great eruption of 1906 the height went from 4,275 feet down to 3,668 feet.

Sikeston beat Cape Girardeau Sunday in the first game of the season to the tune of 4 to 3.

The highest average daily attendance for a month in the Sikeston public schools was reached in March, when the average was 1,083 pupils, according to Supt. Roy V. Ellise. The lowest daily average was reached in January with 924 in attendance.

Local filling stations buying products of the Standard Oil Co., have suspended the sale of ethyl gasoline, under orders from the company. This kind of gas has been greatly discussed recently as a source of lead poisoning.

The Standard family thanks Mrs. N. I. Kirby for a box of fine strawberries from her own patch. About a year ago while on a visit in Tennessee, she secured some plants, set them out in her garden and so far this season has gathered over 50 quarts from the patch.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Jane Malcolm, who died Saturday were held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Malcolm's son, Early Malcolm, on Helen street.

During the summer the rows of seats fastened to the floor in the rear of the high school gymnasium will be moved forward so that the foyer may be enlarged, Superintendent Roy V. Ellise said Friday.

The engagement of Miss Ann Beck and Robert H. Mow was announced informally to friends Tuesday night during the intermission of the board of aeronautics dance. The date of the wedding has not been set.

The Diamond Tavern burned to the ground early Saturday morning. The fire consumed the entire frame structure and the building's equipment, leaving only charred metal, such as iron bedsteads, tanks and a stove.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits. (Psalm 103:2)

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter from a teen-ager named Billy who complained that his mother drove him nuts with her back seat driving.

I am a mother of three teenagers and would like to register the identical complaint. Since my children learned to drive I haven't had a minute's peace behind the wheel.

The other day my son and two of his friends were walking home from school. I saw them and asked if they wanted a ride. The minute they got in the car my son started to criticize my driving. I ignored the first few digs, and then he said, "Ma, I think you need new glasses. You almost clipped that car when you passed it."

I answered, "I was driving when you were in diapers." He didn't say anything then but when we got home he yelled for half an hour about how I had insulted him in front of his friends. He didn't feel that he had insulted me with his crack about my needing new glasses.

I hope you will give parents a break and print this letter, Ann. Several of my friends are having the same problem with their highschoolers. Thank you. -- ON THE DEFENSIVE

Dear On: It's strange that most children think their parents know everything until they get to be about 12 years old. Then, suddenly, their parents don't know anything. This phase usually lasts six or seven years.

At about age 20, children begin to have a somewhat improved opinion of their parents. By the time children marry and have youngsters of their own they strongly suspect that perhaps their parents aren't so dumb after all.

Dear Readers: Well, I've done it again. This time, I not only alienated a whole industry but I've tromped on the toes of my ever-lovin' brother-in-law, a Nebraska jeweler, out of Omaha. He writes:

Dear Ann Landers: What do you mean telling that 22-year-old boy whose girl friend wasn't sure she wanted to be engaged, to "take the ring back to the jeweler for a refund."

A 22-year-old boy is old enough to know what he is doing. A reliable jeweler will stand back of his merchandise and give the customer a refund or exchange if the goods are faulty, but no jeweler in his right mind would sell an engagement ring with the provision that the buyer can bring it back for a refund if the romance doesn't go well.

Would you advise a woman to return a gown to a shop if she became ill and was unable to attend the party? Could you get a real estate company to refund option money if the buyer changed his mind?

I am protesting against your advice in behalf of approximately 25,000 fellow retail jewelers in this country who are probably as unhappy with your advice as I am. I hope you will print this letter and not discriminate against me on the grounds that I am a relative, because I am a daily reader as well - YOUR BROTHER-IN-LAW DAVE B

Dear Dave: Twenty - five thousand apologies to you and all the other retail jewelers. I goofed.

I should have told the young man that: (1) He should not have "surprised" a high school girl with an engagement ring and (2) He should hang on to the ring until he meets a girl who is at least as eager to accept the ring as he is to give it to her. Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

CHARLES BRYAN HARRIS

Charles Harris Added To FBI Most Wanted

CHARLES BRYAN HARRIS, also known as: Black Charlie Harris, Charles "Blackie" Harris, Charley Harris.

FUGITIVE

UNLAWFUL FLIGHT TO AVOID PROSECUTION - MURDER.

Charles Bryan Harris, alleged double-murderer and reputed member of the "Old Shelton Gang" of Southern Illinois, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." He has reportedly vowed to shoot it out with any law enforcement officer attempting to apprehend him and has been known to be in possession of a valise full of handguns.

Harris, known as a veteran and vicious criminal, is currently being sought by the FBI for unlawfully fleeing the State of Illinois to avoid prosecution for the crime of murder. A Federal warrant for his arrest was issued at East St. Louis, Illinois, on September 18, 1964.

On August 16, 1964, in Fairfield, Illinois, Harris allegedly shot and killed a former girl friend and a man who had previously testified against him in a murder trial. Their bodies, with bullet holes through their heads, were recovered from a burned-out building which was reportedly set afire by Harris with the aid of an accelerant.

Harris' long record of criminal activity began in 1927 when he was given a ten-year sentence in a Federal penitentiary for counterfeiting, after being arrested in Detroit, Michigan. In 1948, he was convicted in East St. Louis, Illinois, of carrying a concealed weapon, after being apprehended in possession of a .38 caliber pistol.

He is widely known to Southern Illinois law enforcement officers as an alleged gunman for the "Old Shelton Gang," an infamous group of desperate criminals that ran amuck in Southern Illinois on a crime rampage some three decades ago. Harris has a reputation of having allegedly murdered several people and, as late as July, 1963, was acquitted of a murder charge in Wayne County, Illinois.

A white American, who was born on July 26, 1896, in Fairfield, Illinois, he is 5' 7" tall, weighs approximately 148 pounds, has a medium build, and dark complexion. His hair is black, turning grey, and he has brown eyes. He has three gold-crowned upper front teeth and one lower right tooth is filled with gold. A 1 1/2" scar appears on the back of his left hand and a hernia operation scar appears on his left side. He has been employed in the past as a farmer and a carpenter and is reportedly in excellent health.

He is said to occasionally drink beer and whiskey to excess, enjoys patronizing low-class night clubs, has a reputation as a "ladies' man," usually wears glasses while driving and often dresses in a suit with shirt and necktie. He has reportedly employed disguises to evade arrest and gangland reprisals and has dressed as a woman and changed his voice tone accordingly.

Harris has allegedly threatened the lives of an Illinois State's Attorney and a Circuit Court Judge, and, while sometimes appearing polite and soft-spoken, he is known for having a violent and uncontrollable temper when angered. He is said to often carry a .45 caliber pistol in a cigar box under the front seat of his car, to sleep with a gun and possibly be in possession of a submachine gun. Harris is known as an excellent shot with all types of guns.

He should be considered armed and extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Charles Bryan Harris, you should immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

French Fried Liver

Liver, fried in deep hot lard, heated to 375° F. is one of the most delectable ways to serve this variety meat. Have the liver sliced thin, wash it with cold water and dry thoroughly.

Before frying, cut it with kitchen shears into strips about ¾-inch wide. Dip the pieces in seasoned flour for a light coating then fry in deep, hot lard.

Serve with what? French-fried onions are a perfect teammate.

Compare it!
The smoothest whisky ever to come out of Canada!

What's your usual? Rye? Bourbon? Canadian? Compare it with this elegant new import and you'll never settle for less or pay more.

1. Smoother-tasting than any other whisky on the market. Pour two drinks—highball or over ice. Make one with your "usual," the other with Windsor. You'll be amazed at the sippin' smoothness of Windsor.

2. Windsor Canadian is finer tasting, too! No wonder: it's distilled and aged in mile-high, dry Rocky Mountain air, made from hearty Canadian prairie grains and pure, clear glacial water.

3. Priced right in line with leading domestic whiskies. Because we import Windsor, and then bottle it here, you save on duties and other charges—and get this elegant import at an "everyday" price.

4. Windsor Canadian is imported and bottled by National Distillers . . . producers of some of the world's best-known brands.

5. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Thousands of Americans already have, and now make Windsor their favorite whisky. Why not join them tonight?

Sikeston beat Cape Girardeau Sunday in the first game of the season to the tune of 4 to 3.

The highest average daily attendance for a month in the Sikeston public schools was reached in March, when the average was 1,083 pupils, according to Supt. Roy V. Ellise. The lowest daily average was reached in January with 924 in attendance.

Local filling stations buying products of the Standard Oil Co., have suspended the sale of ethyl gasoline, under orders from the company. This kind of gas has been greatly discussed recently as a source of lead poisoning.

The Standard family thanks Mrs. N. I. Kirby for a box of fine strawberries from her own patch. About a year ago while on a visit in Tennessee, she secured some plants, set them out in her garden and so far this season has gathered over 50 quarts from the patch.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Jane Malcolm, who died Saturday were held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Malcolm's son, Early Malcolm, on Helen street.

During the summer the rows of seats fastened to the floor in the rear of the high school gymnasium will be moved forward so that the foyer may be enlarged, Superintendent Roy V. Ellise said Friday.

The engagement of Miss Ann Beck and Robert H. Mow was announced informally to friends Tuesday night during the intermission of the board of aeronautics dance. The date of the wedding has not been set.

The Diamond Tavern burned to the ground early Saturday morning. The fire consumed the entire frame structure and the building's equipment, leaving only charred metal, such as iron bedsteads, tanks and a stove.

I hope you will give parents a break and print this letter, Ann. Several of my friends are having the same problem with their highschoolers. Thank you. -- ON THE DEFENSIVE

Dear On: It's strange that most children think their parents know everything until they get to be about 12 years old. Then, suddenly, their parents don't know anything. This phase usually lasts six or seven years.

At about age 20, children begin to have a somewhat improved opinion of their parents. By the time children marry and have youngsters of their own they strongly suspect that perhaps their parents aren't so dumb after all.

Dear Readers: Well, I've done it again. This time, I not only alienated a whole industry but I've tromped on the toes of my ever-lovin' brother-in-law, a Nebraska jeweler, out of Omaha. He writes:

Dear Ann Landers: What do you mean telling that 22-year-old boy whose girl friend wasn't sure she wanted to be engaged, to "take the ring back to the jeweler for a refund."

A 22-year-old boy is old enough to know what he is doing. A reliable jeweler will stand back of his merchandise and give the customer a refund or exchange if the goods are faulty, but no jeweler in his right mind would sell an engagement ring with the provision that the buyer can bring it back for a refund if the romance doesn't go well.

Would you advise a woman to return a gown to a shop if she became ill and was unable to attend the party? Could you get a real estate company to refund option money if the buyer changed his mind?

I am protesting against your advice in behalf of approximately 25,000 fellow retail jewelers in this country who are probably as unhappy with your advice as I am. I hope you will print this letter and not discriminate against me on the grounds that I am a relative, because I am a daily reader as well - YOUR BROTHER-IN-LAW DAVE B

Dear Dave: Twenty - five thousand apologies to you and all the other retail jewelers. I goofed.

I should have told the young man that: (1) He should not have "surprised" a high school girl with an engagement ring and (2) He should hang on to the ring until he meets a girl who is at least as eager to accept the ring as he is to give it to her. Twenty lashes with a gold watch chain for Granny Annie.

Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

CHARLES BRYAN HARRIS

Charles Harris Added To FBI Most Wanted

CHARLES BRYAN HARRIS, also known as: Black Charlie Harris, Charles "Blackie" Harris, Charley Harris.

FUGITIVE

UNLAWFUL FLIGHT TO AVOID PROSECUTION - MURDER.

Charles Bryan Harris, alleged double-murderer and reputed member of the "Old Shelton Gang" of Southern Illinois, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." He has reportedly vowed to shoot it out with any law enforcement officer attempting to apprehend him and has been known to be in possession of a valise full of handguns.

Harris, known as a veteran and vicious criminal, is currently being sought by the FBI for unlawfully fleeing the State of Illinois to avoid prosecution for the crime of murder. A Federal warrant for his arrest was issued at East St. Louis, Illinois, on September 18, 1964.

On August 16, 1964, in Fairfield, Illinois, Harris allegedly shot and killed a former girl friend and a man who had previously testified against him in a murder trial. Their bodies, with bullet holes through their heads, were recovered from a burned-out building which was reportedly set afire by Harris with the aid of an accelerant.

Harris' long record of criminal activity began in 1927 when he was given a ten-year sentence in a Federal penitentiary for counterfeiting, after being arrested in Detroit, Michigan. In 1948, he was convicted in East St. Louis, Illinois, of carrying a concealed weapon, after being apprehended in possession of a .38 caliber pistol.

He is widely known to Southern Illinois law enforcement officers as an alleged gunman for the "Old Shelton Gang," an infamous group of desperate criminals that ran amuck in Southern Illinois on a crime rampage some three decades ago. Harris has a reputation of having allegedly murdered several people and, as late as July, 1963, was acquitted of a murder charge in Wayne County, Illinois.

A white American, who was born on July 26, 1896, in Fairfield, Illinois, he is 5' 7" tall, weighs approximately 148 pounds, has a medium build, and dark complexion. His hair is black, turning grey, and he has brown eyes. He has three gold-crowned upper front teeth and one lower right tooth is filled with gold. A 1 1/2" scar appears on the back of his left hand and a hernia operation scar appears on his left side. He has been employed in the past as a farmer and a carpenter and is reportedly in excellent health.

He is said to occasionally drink beer and whiskey to excess, enjoys patronizing low-class night clubs, has a reputation as a "ladies' man," usually wears glasses while driving and often dresses in a suit with shirt and necktie. He has reportedly employed disguises to evade arrest and gangland reprisals and has dressed as a woman and changed his voice tone accordingly.

Harris has allegedly threatened the lives of an Illinois State's Attorney and a Circuit Court Judge, and, while sometimes appearing polite and soft-spoken, he is known for having a violent and uncontrollable temper when angered. He is said to often carry a .45 caliber pistol in a cigar box under the front seat of his car, to sleep with a gun and possibly be in possession of a submachine gun. Harris is known as an excellent shot with all types of guns.

He should be considered armed and extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Charles Bryan Harris, you should immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

French Fried Liver

Liver, fried in deep hot lard, heated to 375° F. is one of the most delectable ways to serve this variety meat. Have the liver sliced thin, wash it with cold water and dry thoroughly.

Before frying, cut it with kitchen shears into strips about ¾-inch wide. Dip the pieces in seasoned flour for a light coating then fry in deep, hot lard.

Serve with what? French-fried onions are a perfect teammate.

Compare it!
The smoothest whisky ever to come out of Canada!

What's your usual? Rye? Bourbon? Canadian? Compare it with this elegant new import and you'll never settle for less or pay more.

1. Smoother-tasting than any other whisky on the market. Pour two drinks—highball or over ice. Make one with your "usual," the other with Windsor. You'll be amazed at the sippin' smoothness of Windsor.

2. Windsor Canadian is finer tasting, too! No wonder: it's distilled and aged in mile-high, dry Rocky Mountain air, made from hearty Canadian prairie grains and pure, clear glacial water.

3. Priced right in line with leading domestic whiskies. Because we import Windsor, and then bottle it here, you save on duties and other charges—and get this elegant import at an "everyday" price.

4. Windsor Canadian is imported and bottled by National Distillers . . . producers of some of the world's best-known brands.

5. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Thousands of Americans already have, and now make Windsor their favorite whisky. Why not join them tonight?

Today In U. S. History

Today is Tuesday, May 11, the 131st day of 1965. There are 234 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1858, Minnesota was admitted to the union as the 32nd state. The French were the first to settle the state and in its early history it also came under the rule of Spain and England.

On this date

In 1647, Peter Stuyvesant became governor of New Amsterdam, now New York.

In 1867, the Treaty of London was signed, giving Luxembourg the status of perpetual neutrality.

In 1942, Nazi armies opened their drive in the Crimea.

In 1943, Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived in Washington for a conference with President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1944, Allied forces launched their spring offensive in Italy.

Ten years ago — Left-wing Christian Democratic party leader Giovanni Gronchi was inaugurated president of Italy.

Five years ago — The longest passenger ship in the world, the France, was launched at St. Nazaire.

One year ago — President Johnson promised continuing aid for Latin America until a hemisphere of free nations could be realized.

courses in basic education reading, writing and simple arithmetic and basic or exploratory vocational experiences to determine their vocational aptitudes. They will then be given further training in occupations for which there is employment potential. Most of the training will be conducted in the Sikeston community. The trainees will be selected by the Missouri Division of Employment Security and all training will be under the administration and supervision of the Sikeston Public Schools.

Under the Manpower Development and Training Act, the purpose of which is to train the unemployed for jobs, the trainees are given a subsistence allowance during the period of training. According to school officials, not only will a training opportunity be provided for many of the unemployed in the area, but the program will bring a considerable amount of money into Southeast Missouri which will increase business and provide many new jobs.

An advisory committee of representative businessmen and professional men in various Southeast Missouri communities has been set up to advise in the planning and operation of the program. Those asked to serve on this committee are: Art Wallhausen, Jr., Charleston; C. L. Blanton, III and F. C. Matthews, Jr., Sikeston; Stephen Limbaugh, Cape Girardeau; Robert C. Hyde and Charles Atkins, Poplar Bluff; Sam Hunter, Jr., New Madrid; Ralph Hawkins, Portageville; Robert Coleman, Caruthersville; Jack Stapleton, Jr. and John McClain, Kennett; and Herbert Thrower and George Sisler, Dexter.

All expenses of this training program are paid from federal funds and no local money or tax funds are used. According to the Board of Education the training will probably begin about the middle of or the latter part of June.

Gen. Changes Mind About Resigning

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The head of the civilian-military junta said today he will accept the resignation of Brig. Gen. Wessin y Wessin, archfoe of the rebels, if it is offered.

Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, president of the junta, said in an interview he knew nothing of Wessin's resignation, reported Monday by the U.S. Embassy as a peace overture to the rebels. Later the embassy said Wessin had reconsidered.

"The question of Gen. Wessin's resignation is a matter between Gen. Imbert and Gen. Wessin," a U.S. Embassy official said in a statement.

"We did understand from official sources that Gen. Wessin was going to resign at 4 p.m. Monday. We now understand that he is reconsidering his decision," the statement said.

The United States had pressed for Wessin's retirement as a peace gesture toward the rebels, whose forces he fought with planes and tanks before the arrival of U.S. troops. Many Dominicans held him responsible for the air bombardments of Santo Domingo that took more than 1,000 lives.

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, proclaimed provisional president by the rebels, has been demanding that Wessin leave the country. The general commands the San Isidro training base 20 miles from Santo Domingo, one of the country's key military posts, and was a leader of the military revolt that overthrew President Juan Bosch in 1963.

U.S. sources said Wessin sent a letter Sunday to U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. in which he expressed his willingness to resign from the army for the good of the country. The letter was written after he met with Bennett and Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of the 21,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers in the Dominican Republic.

There was no explanation for the general's change of heart.

Reliable sources said the U.S. Embassy and representatives of the Organization of American States were trying to arrange a meeting between junta chief Imbert and rebel leader Caamano, but that Caamano so far had refused.

Caamano met with the papal nuncio, Msgr. Emanuele Clarizio, Monday. The nuncio, who represents Pope Paul VI in the Dominican Republic, reportedly carried a message from the junta. Results of the meeting were not disclosed.

In another peace gesture, Imbert on Sunday dismissed eight officers considered offensive to the rebels. Caamano's comment on the move was: "They have killed the flies and left the beetles."

At a new conference Monday he again denied charges that his movement was controlled by Communists.

"I am completely sure that a dictatorship of the left is infinitely worse than one of the right," he said.

U.S. forces reinforced their encirclement of the rebel-held area of Santo Domingo with 105mm howitzers, six smaller cannon and an additional 15 M48 tanks. A U.S. military spokesman said the artillery was "tuned on rebel targets."

A pair of mortar shells, apparently fired from the rebel sector, landed harmlessly about 100 yards from Palmer's headquarters.

The rebels showed no inclination to give up and began organizing daily life in their sector of the city. They control a maze of crowded apartment houses and business buildings in southeast Santo Domingo, called Ciudad Nueva.

Rebel soldiers directed traffic and rebel officials reopened two government offices that normally issue auto registration plates and identification cards. Ciudad Nueva residents began burning rubbish in front of their homes. There is no organized trash collection.

In Washington, the five-nation peace committee of the Organization of American States ignored a rebel ultimatum suspending peace negotiations.

The rebels, who seek to restore ex-President Bosch to office, had demanded a seat on the OAS.

"Nobody suspends negotiations for peace, nor wants to do so," said Ricardo M. Colombo, Argentina's OAS ambassador and chairman of the peace group. He said he would return to Santo Domingo today.

The United States won a victory at the OAS Council session Monday night when it pushed through a resolution designating the five-nation peace committee as the controlling authority for an inter-American military force for the Dominican Republic. The force is yet to be established.

The resolution was adopted 14-3, with Mexico, Uruguay and Chile voting against it. Ecuador, Venezuela and Peru abstained.

At the United Nations, the U.N. Security Council appeared resigned to the prospect of winding up its debate on the Dominican crisis without taking any decisive action.

Jordan and Uruguay made last-minute efforts to introduce some kind of resolution that would continue U.N. responsibility in the matter. Even if adopted, it would be largely a face-saving gesture.

Cooking by Simmering

Certain cuts of meat are best when cooked by simmering in water. These include corned beef (brisket) and tongue and are cooked in water to cover. It's interesting to add extra special flavor during the cooking. For example, 1 lemon, sliced, 2 onions, sliced, 6 whole cloves, 6 whole peppers and a stick of cinnamon bark added to pickled tongue while it cooks enhances the flavor of this cut.

courses in basic education reading, writing and simple arithmetic and basic or exploratory vocational experiences to determine their vocational aptitudes. They will then be given further training in occupations for which there is employment potential. Most of the training will be conducted in the Sikeston community. The trainees will be selected by the Missouri Division of Employment Security and all training will be under the administration and supervision of the Sikeston Public Schools.

Under the Manpower Development and Training Act, the purpose of which is to train the unemployed for jobs, the trainees are given a subsistence allowance during the period of training. According to school officials, not only will a training opportunity be provided for many of the unemployed in the area, but the program will bring a considerable amount of money into Southeast Missouri which will increase business and provide many new jobs.

An advisory committee of representative businessmen and professional men in various Southeast Missouri communities has been set up to advise in the planning and operation of the program. Those asked to serve on this committee are: Art Wallhausen, Jr., Charleston; C. L. Blanton, III and E. C. Matthews, Jr., Sikeston; Stephen Limbaugh, Cape Girardeau; Robert C. Hyde and Charles Atkins, Poplar Bluff; Sam Hunter, Jr., New Madrid; Ralph Hawkins, Portageville; Robert Coleman, Caruthersville; Jack Stapleton, Jr. and John McClain, Kennett; and Herbert Thrower and George Sisler, Dexter.

All expenses of this training program are paid from federal funds and no local money or tax funds are used. According to the Board of Education the training will probably begin about the middle of or the latter part of June.
